

NIXON RETURNS HOME

No Secret Deal Made, He Says

... TAIWAN EXIT DEFENDED

Washington (AP) — President Nixon returned Monday night from his historic mission to China, defending his pledge to ultimately withdraw all U.S. forces from Taiwan, and proclaiming his journey had the foundation for a new structure of world peace.

Taking tacit note of conservative criticisms of his Taiwan pledge, Nixon said as he returned to the capital that no secret agreements had been entered into to decide the fate of any nation.

Addressing a crowd of several thousand and a national television audience, Nixon traced the details of the communique issued after his unprecedented talks with Chinese leaders.

'Seize The Moment'

He repeated a phrase he used several times in China—"Peace is too urgent to wait for centuries. We must seize the moment and move toward that goal now."

"That is what we have done on this journey," Nixon said.

In his 10-minute speech at Andrews AFB, Nixon said the communique had stated established U.S. policy toward Taiwan. The ultimate objective, he said, is to withdraw U.S. forces.

"We did not negotiate the fate of other nations behind their backs," Nixon said in obvious reference to the Taiwan dispute. "There were no secret deals of any kind."

He cited, besides Taiwan, the communique's pledge to work to broaden trade and for educational, cultural and journalistic exchanges.

'Nothing Given Up'

"We did all of this without giving up any U.S. commitment of any kind," the President said.

He expressed hope that as a result of his trip "our children will have a better chance to grow up in a peaceful world."

Nixon noted the devotion of the Chinese to their way of government, but said: "I come back to America with an even stronger faith in our system of government."

He said — without giving specifics — that a procedure had been set up to continue discussions with Chinese leaders in the future.

As the chief executive stepped before television cameras to report to the nation, he was under criticism from conservatives upset by his pledge that U.S. troops ultimately will be withdrawn from Taiwan.

Praise From Ted

But he also had endorsements from some members of Congress, including warm praise from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a frequent critic of the administration.

Kennedy praised the communique as "one of the most progressive documents in the long and distinguished tradition of American diplomacy and foreign affairs."

It was, Kennedy said, "a fitting end to a historic visit that has done so much to renew the long and tragically interrupted friendship between the American and Chinese peoples."

Kennedy said he welcomes "the progress on Taiwan," adding: "The administration has now delivered the coup de grace to its old discredited two-China policy, and I hope that there will be an early and rapid withdrawal of American forces from that island."

Before leaving Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage, Alaska, on the last leg of his 20,395-mile journey, Nixon told a crowd of about 1,000 that because of his trip "the chance for peace for this generation of people is the best since the end of World War II."

En route from Alaska to Washington, White House officials told newsmen aboard the presidential jet that Nixon would meet Tuesday morning with bipartisan congressional leaders, and with his Cabinet afterwards.

Corporation Tax Bill May Aid Veto Attack

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A proposed increase in state corporation income taxes will apparently serve as the prelude to a showdown vote on Gov. J. James Exon's veto of Sen. Jules Burch's personal property tax exemption bill.

The governor delivered his veto, as promised, Monday morning.

Burch promptly announced his intention to attempt to override Exon's objections "within the next two or three days."

But, in the meantime, the Legislature is tentatively scheduled to launch debate on the corporation income tax proposal Tuesday.

Speaker W. H. Hasebroock of West Point confirmed that "a number of senators" want to consider the corporation tax bill immediately.

The measure, LB1103, would increase corporation tax rates by 25%. Estimated additional revenue: some $3.2 million a year.

That would pay nearly 40% of the first-year (1973) costs of LB1101, the legislative tax study committee's personal property tax exemption proposal championed by Burch.

And it might, in the process, help swing some votes Burch's way when senators consider his motion to override the governor's veto.

Burch will need 30 votes on that motion. The bill was enacted last week with 28 affirmative votes.

First-year costs of the plan are estimated at $8.5 million.

Exon's veto message described the bill as "a grossly unfair proposal" which would greatly assist "self-interest groups" at the expense of farmers, small businessmen and average citizens.

"Indeed, if the people of this state fully understood the impact and what would be done to them should LB1101 become law, we would see a political uprising of taxpayers," the governor declared.

Even proponents of the bill "concede it would eventually force a substantial increase in both the sales and income tax rates" as it moves over a six-year period from an initial 15% tax exemption to the 90% level, Exon said.

The "special interest groups" who support the measure are "among the mere 3,100 personal property taxpayers of this state who will reap the astounding tax windfall of some $22 million" if the bill becomes law, the governor said.

Those 3,100 taxpayers who now pay $2,000 or more per year in personal property taxes on inventories will receive 42% of the $51 million in exemptions which would be granted at the 90% level, Exon told the Legislature.

"Who makes up the difference if such a tax break is granted so few?" he asked. "... it would be the rank and file taxpayers of Nebraska."

Exon said the bill gives local governmental subdivisions a "blank check" to make "unlimited raids" on the state treasury.

The state would be "forever obligated to pay $9 for every $1 of ever-increasing personal property tax collections at the local level when the act becomes fully funded," the governor said.

Both his "reasonable alternative" proposal contained in LB1475 and LB1101 face some questions of constitutionality, Exon declared.

But "we should endeavor to enact laws that are fair and just in our individual and collective opinions and allow due process to take its course," probably through a challenge in the courts, he said.

Burch said the veto message was "about what I expected the governor would say."

"How anyone can justify an unfair tax with arbitrary ceilings is beyond me," he declared.

Exon's bill would authorize a 50% tax exemption with an eventual tax credit ceiling of $1,000 per taxpayer. The initial maximum would be $50.

Both bills limit exemptions to agricultural and business inventory and equipment, including livestock, feed, seed, grain and fertilizer.

It's Deadline Day

Because of Leap Year's extra day Tuesday, motor vehicle owners are given a one-day reprieve for obtaining 1972 license plates before the March 1 deadline.

Plates may be obtained from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the County-City Building and Gateway Auditorium.

Tabs for 1971 expire at midnight Tuesday and vehicles on public streets not bearing 1972 plates will be ticketed, according to authorities.

Israel Begins Withdrawal From Southeast Lebanon

By The Associated Press

Israeli forces withdrew from southeastern Lebanon on Monday after four days of attacks on Arab guerrilla havens near the border.

Israel claimed about 50 guerrillas had been slain and nearly 100 wounded. Guerrillas acknowledged losses of 20 dead and 36 wounded.

Leaflets distributed to villagers in the fighting area warned of further Israeli assaults unless Lebanon clamps down on guerrilla activity.

The attacks were in retaliation for guerrilla raids last week that killed an Israeli couple and three soldiers.

Demand By U.N. Council

The U.N. Security Council demanded that Israel halt the fighting and pull out of Lebanon. Israeli officials first declared they would not heed the resolution adopted early Monday, calling it "one-sided and cynical."

Military sources in Tel Aviv reported later that Israeli ground and air forces which pounded the area near Biblical Mt. Hermon had withdrawn, leaving the guerrillas "in complete disarray."

Lebanese witnesses said the withdrawal began about noon, when Israeli forces pulled out of the village of Hibbariyam, in the Arkoub region which had been controlled by guerrillas. The bulk of the troops crossed back into the Golan Heights section of occupied Syria by midafternoon and the withdrawal was completed by nightfall, they added.

Army Moving In

The Lebanese army began moving into the 100-square-mile area formerly occupied by the guerrillas after the Israelis pulled out.

"This time we intend to occupy the guerrilla positions and keep them," said an army colonel.

It was the first time the army had moved into the area that had been virtually a private reserve of Palestinian guerrillas and a major base for their raids into northern Israel.

Israel claims 5,000 Palestinian guerrillas are based in southern Lebanon and charge the Lebanese government exercises no control over them.

DENISE . . . ponders problem.

How Many Candles?

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

Denise Walker has a special problem. Should she put three or twelve candles on her birthday cake?

Born on Feb. 29, 1960, Denise will chronologically be twelve today, but will celebrate only the third occasion of her official birthday. Every other year she has had to settle for a Feb. 28 celebration.

"I am happy to have a real birthday this year," said Denise, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Walker of 1621 S. 3rd.

Denise is also special in other ways, as she is a participant of the Homebound Program administered through the Lincoln school system.

Afflicted with a birth defect that left her with one leg shorter than the other, Denise has undergone a series of operations in Lincoln as well as consultations at the Mayo Clinic.

Her homebound teacher, Mrs. Helen Bonneau, remarked on Denise's "high spirits," in spite of the prolonged confinement.

Denise has been on the homebound instruction for over a year now and is in the equivalent of fifth grade. Previous to her illness she was a student at Park Elementary School.

Confined to her home most of the time, with the exception of church outings on Sunday, Denise is nevertheless busy with projects. "I like to do things with my hands," explained Denise, who is teaching herself to knit and crochet, in addition to tissue-paper crafts and beading. She also practices on the piano occasionally, having had some initial lessons when she was at school.

Among her other interests are reading mysteries and watching the "Electric Company" on television.

Mrs. Walker revealed Denise's expertise in cooking. Her special favorite is ginger snaps and her mother proclaims her "good in the kitchen."

Each year as her birthday approaches, if it is not a Leap Year, Denise wishes it would just pass her by, for it is "just not the same" celebrating a day early.

Yet every fourth year Denise can celebrate her extra special day and be confident that she doesn't have to share that occasion with too many other people.

Ties To Be Sought

Canberra (UPI) — Prime Minister William McMahon said Australia would seek closer relations with China on the same basis as the United States.

received committee endorsement.

The $3 million recommendation for state aid for construction of municipal waste treatment facilities will come to the floor in the form of an amended LB1466.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa, originally requested a $7.5 million appropriation from the state tax-supported general fund.

Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell offered an amendment to reduce the figure to $3 million, and that was accepted by the committee without dissent.

LB1466 was then moved to the floor on a 9-0 vote.

Among other items in the $8.3 million construction package thus far endorsed by the committee are $300,000 for fire safety repairs at state institutions; $210,000 for a food service building at the Beatrice State Home; and $181,000 for cottages at the Girls Training School.

The approved list represents the priority recommendations of the legislative fiscal analyst's staff.

The committee is expected to examine a second priority list Tuesday prepared by its staff on the assumption that the Legislature will approve pending legislation creating a new capital construction fund supplied with cigarette tax revenue.

The expanded list totals $14.7 million.

Among other funds approved for the university are $235,000 for land acquisition at the University of Nebraska at Omaha; $200,000 for land acquisition at the Medical Center in Omaha, and $75,000 for miscellaneous renovation at all campuses.

A $3,180,625 classroom-office building at UNO, recommended in the expanded list, has not yet

Appropriations Committee Okays $9 Million For Construction Work

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee Monday approved nearly $9 million in capital construction projects, and recommended $3 million in funding for state aid to build municipal waste treatment facilities.

Committee action on its capital construction budget recommendations is incomplete. Other projects will be considered at a noon meeting Tuesday.

Among projects endorsed on a unanimous vote were a $3,320,000 library addition and $1,485,000 to construct a new home economics building on the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campuses.

Also included in the $8,820,681 list is $1,724,970 to construct a classroom-administration

New York Times News Summary

President Nixon Returns To United States

Washington — President Nixon returned to the United States Monday night, ending his visit to China and a week that he said changed the world. (More on Page 1.)

Taiwan's Words Strong

Taipei, Taiwan — In a strongly worded statement on the communique issued by President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai, the Nationalist Chinese government said the "rebel group" in Peking had no right to represent the Chinese people and that they regarded any agreements reached during Nixon's visit that effected the Nationalist government as "null and void."

Sex Bias Move OK'd

Washington — An amendment that would deny federal funds to all graduate schools and most public undergraduate colleges and universities that discriminate against women was approved by the Senate. The measure exempts private undergraduate institutions, military academies and church institutions where the requirements would conflict with religious tenets.

Kremlin Is Relieved

Moscow — In a marked shift of its treatment of China, the Soviet Union indicated that it was relieved that President Nixon's talks in China had evidently achieved only modest results.

Two Planes Removed

Washington — Defense department sources said two American planes, which were equipped to carry nuclear weapons, had been removed from Taiwan prior to Nixon's trip to China. The planes were normally kept on alert for possible emergency use in the Far East. Pentagon officials said they did not know if the planes would return.

Busing Hearings Open

Washington — Hearings on the various constitutional amendments against the use of busing to achieve racial integration were opened by the House Judiciary Committee.

McGovern Makes List Public

Washington — Sen. George McGovern made public a list of contributors to his presidential campaign. The gifts, ranging from single dollar bills to $25,000, came from 42,472 people and totalled $1,255,910. McGovern challenged his opponents, particularly Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and Mayor John V. Lindsay, to follow his example.

Spying Pervasive

Washington — In a brief filed with the Supreme Court, Sen. Sam J. Ervin said Army intelligence surveillance on civilian officials was much more extensive than had previously been revealed. Ervin said the Army had watched the activities of a Supreme Court justice, numerous congressmen and senators, and state officials. (More on Page 12.)

McGovern, Mansfield Praise Trip's Results

Washington (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. George S. McGovern Monday praised the results of President Nixon's trip to China, but some conservative lawmakers claimed it amounted to a sellout of Nationalist China.

"He got the best possible deal under the circumstances," Mansfield told reporters. "In my opinion, the joint communique contains a great deal of substance, much more than I expected, a good deal of candor, a recognition we belong to different societies, but also the need to coexist and live with one another."

McGovern said, "The United States gained everything. We reduced the tensions that could lead to war with this great power."

But the South Dakota Democrat said if he were president, he would have gone one step farther and agreed to withdraw all U.S. troops from fact, it is now clear that the rug had been pulled out from under the Taiwanese ...

Mansfield, however, said Nixon had "opened the way to bringing about in time — and the sooner the better — an era of peace and stability throughout East Asia."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a liberal member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and frequent critic of administration foreign policy, said: "We could scarcely have expected more. Indeed, at this juncture, more would have been unwise — even dangerous."

Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, seeking to take the GOP presidential nomination away from Nixon, also said he was "shocked and dismayed" at the communique. The United States, he said, apparently had broken a "solemn American pledge" to guarantee the security of Taiwan.

TO EXPLAIN

Assistant Secretary of State Marshall Green left Shanghai Monday to begin his trip to explain details of president Nixon's China talks to leaders of Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, South Vietnam, the Philippines, Indonesia, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand.

W. Virginia Toll At 67 In Disaster

Man, W. Va. (AP) — The toll of known dead rose to 67 in flood-stricken Logan County on Monday and it was feared the number would continue to mount as rescue workers search the remains of 16 coal mining camps.

Approximately 250 persons are missing or unaccounted for, officials say. Another 4,000 people are homeless and there have been promises of quick federal and state aid for them.

National Guard troops dug under the debris of the 16 former clusters of houses and mobile homes which once dotted the 17-mile hollow where the people died.

An earthen dam at the head of the hollow crumbled Saturday, unleashing a wall of water which swept down the valley devastating everything in its path.

"It left the worst destruction I've ever seen — there is nothing left up there at all," said state police Cpl. W. M. Garrett. "I'm afraid to say how many more people we might find," Garrett said.

Star Witness Testifies Against Berrigan

Harrisburg, Pa. (AP) — Star government witness Boyd Douglas testified Monday that he prepared in advance his betrayal of the Rev. Philip Berrigan so authorities "would realize the threat of these people to the United States."

Douglas said he turned FBI informer against Berrigan partly because as a strict Catholic he was concerned about the actions of the priest and six codefendants on trial with him on federal conspiracy charges. All but one also are Catholics.

Douglas said Berrigan recruited him as a courier to smuggle mail in and out of the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison where both were convicted in the summer of 1970. Douglas was attending college under a prison release program.

Among such letters were two said by the government to have concerned a plot to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger.

Douglas, 31, also testified that Berrigan revealed to him a scheme to blow up heating tunnels in Washington buildings.

"He told me he had been in this system along with another individual. He had been down in the tunnel system himself posing as an electrical engineer ...

"He said to destroy these utility pipes in Washington itself would have the utmost impact on the U.S. government if they were destroyed right. I told him at that time that I'd had some experience with explosives while in the service."

Douglas testified that he made copies of letters he smuggled in and out of prison for Berrigan. When asked why he made the copies, Douglas said:

"After I had the conversation I previously testified to regarding the destruction in Washington, I became concerned about the goal of these people, also the fact that everyone I had met at that time was in the clerical field."

"I'm a Catholic and I've been brought up a very strict Catholic."

"I knew it would be only a matter of time before the institutional authorities knew I was carrying out contraband material. I knew there was no way to take letters from the institution and bring them back without being detected by the prison authorities ..."

"I felt if I had enough evidence to produce at the time that the authorities would believe what I was telling them, not only about the conversations, but also about the letters, and they would realize the threat of these people to the United States government."

As he had feared, the government claims, Douglas smuggling of the letters was uncovered. He thereupon turned over to the FBI according to the prosecution and continued his courier role at this time as an FBI informer.

Three-Quarter-Block Area Hit By Fire In Butte, Mont.

Butte, Mont. (AP) — An explosion and fire early Monday destroyed a three-quarter-block section of Butte's downtown business area, including four residence hotels, a J. C. Penney Co. store and seven small businesses.

Officials said there were no serious injuries. Damage to the area was put at a conservative $4 million by city officials.

Two of the four residence hotels were unoccupied, and city officials said about 50 residents of the other two hotels, many of them retired persons, were evacuated safely.

The explosion came shortly after midnight, officials said, and touched off the raging fire in the four-story, steel and brick J. C. Penney Co. store. Within one hour, a witness said, Penney's was reduced to a steel skeleton.

The fire quickly spread across the street to the unoccupied Clark Hotel, a five-story structure.

Mayor Mike Micone called it the "city's worst disaster ever" and said machinery was being set in motion for emergency financial aid for affected businesses.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately determined.

Buildings destroyed, in addition to Penney's, were the Clark, Hillcrest, Washington and Miner's hotels. Only the Hillcrest and Washington were partially occupied. Businesses occupied the first floor of the other two hotels.

Japan Backs China's Taiwan View

By United Press International Japan indicated Monday following President Nixon's trip to Peking that it considers the Communists as the sole government of China. The Nationalists on Taiwan expressed concern about the consequences of the visit.

The Soviet comment was doubtful that Nixon's journey would bear fruit, and there were some fears in Western Europe that the United States might withdraw from there, too.

Those were some of the principal reactions to the American President's week-long visit to China and the joint communique with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai which ended it on Sunday.

Japan's Prime Minister Sato, addressing the lower house of the Diet (Parliament) Monday, backedtrack on earlier statements in support of the Taiwan government of President Chiang Kai-shek.

"I consider Taiwan as part of China," Sato said. "It's natural to believe Taiwan is an integral part of the People's Republic of China ... One China and one government is the principle. This should be so."

The Chiang government, on the other hand, reiterated its aim to reconquer the Chinese mainland in a communique issued by the Nationalist Chinese foreign ministry and said:

"... The effects of President Nixon's visit are diametrically opposite to what he expected, and the countries in the Asian and Pacific area will be among the first ones to suffer from its aftermath ... (and) ... should not entertain the slightest delusion of coexisting peacefully with the Chinese Communists."

Elsewhere, in Western Europe, UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler reported from London that fears were revived among Western allies that the United States' overwhelming preoccupation with China, with Russia a No. 2 priority issue, indicates Washington may begin to loosen its links with Europe as well as with Asian allies.

U.S. Asks Chinese To Join Geneva Disarmament Talks

Geneva (UPI) — The United States has asked China to join this year's 25-nation Geneva disarmament conference, which begins Tuesday, American officials said Monday.

Joseph Martin Jr., named by President Nixon as the new U.S. negotiator at the conference here, will stress during his opening statement Washington's wish that all nuclear powers participate in the talks, the officials said.

While the United States, Soviet Union and Britain have taken part since the conference began in 1962, China and France, the two other nuclear powers, have stayed away.

Both Western and Communist officials said they feel confident that if China comes to Geneva the French will follow.

The first order of business this year is how to invite Peking to send a delegation, conference officials said.

ference officials said.

The Geneva conference has to its credit the negotiation of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, the Washington-Moscow "hot line," the prohibition of undersea nuclear installations, the agreement on the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons and, last year, the outlawing of biological weapons.

High Court Will Rule On Refusing Ads

From Press Reports Washington — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether the First Amendment requires broadcasters to accept paid advertisements on controversial issues such as war and politics.

The court will schedule arguments on two test cases next fall or winter and hand down a written opinion. Until then, the stations may continue refusing such ads if they wish.

In other action, the court: —Refused to disturb a ruling by the Illinois Supreme Court that a portion of state law classifying marijuana as a narcotic drug was invalid on grounds it was arbitrary and lacked clear scientific evidence.

—Let stand a U.S. Circuit Court's dismissal of suits brought by Reyes Lopez Tijerina and other Chicanos in charging their rights had been violated by arrests during their 1967 raid of the courthouse at Tierra Amarilla, N.M.

—Agreed to decide whether Chicken Delight Corp., a food franchiser, may compel all its 800 franchisees to buy its supplies through the company rather than outside sources.

—Denied a hearing to an Army bandsman, David B. Cortright, who claimed he was transferred and punished for his off-duty opposition to the Vietnam war.

—Agreed to decide whether criminal suspects must be told they have the right to refuse police search requests.

—Rejected a challenge to regulations requiring policemen to live within city limits.

State Senators Throw Out Booze On Campus Proposal

The Legislature Monday killed a bill which would have permitted colleges and universities to sell beer and liquor on campus.

The measure, sought by Creighton University in Omaha, was thrown out on a 30-12 vote accepting a motion submitted by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha.

Chambers said the proposal, LB1092, asks the Legislature to authorize universities to establish on their campuses "a dispensary for the most abused drug in the country."

Alcohol is "one of the most destructive elements in our society," Chambers said, and

"it distresses me (to find such a proposal endorsed) by gentlemen of the cloth."

Creighton requested the bill in order to establish a rathskeller on campus in which students, faculty members, administrators and alumni could socialize. No package sales would be permitted.

It is better to have students able to drink in "a controlled atmosphere on campus" than it is for them to travel some distance to drink in less controlled conditions, Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha argued.

Klaver and Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha were co-sponsors of the measure.

Mahoney agreed that "it is far better to allow students to drink a beer on campus than to have to go a few blocks away where you can get into all kinds of problems."

Had the bill survived Chambers' kill motion, Mahoney said, he together with Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha would have proposed an amendment to confine campus sales to beer only.

Sen. William Skarda of Omaha said the bill "stinks to the high heavens." Colleges should not be permitted to compete with private liquor licensees, he said.

If beer is going to be sold on campus, Sen. Richard Proudt of Omaha suggested, "we ought to put a tavern in this building."

Students and faculty members can "just as well socialize over a cup of coffee," Proudt said.

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice wondered whether educators should be taking a position "sanctioning or encouraging" the sale of beer and alcohol.

But Creighton has a special problem because there is no tavern within a reasonable distance of the campus, Sen. Harold Moylan of Omaha said. And easy student access to the downtown area is blocked by the Interstate Highway, he noted.

Cattle Industry Backs Feedlot Control Delay

By The Associated Press

A number of representatives of Nebraska's cattle feeding industry Monday urged the Legislature's Agriculture and Recreation Committee to approve a resolution asking for a five-year extension of a deadline for providing a statewide system of controlling feedlot pollution.

The deadline is now set for next Dec. 31 but Resolution 37 asks that the date be set back five years to Dec. 31, 1977.

The resolution was held for later action by the committee.

Although the resolution asks for a five-year extension, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly admitted it was chosen "arbitrarily" and said a three- or four-year extension would be acceptable.

However, T. C. Reeves of Central City, chairman of the Environmental Control Council which is charged with promulgating regulations for feedlot control, suggested the resolution be amended to provide a one-year extension "and then we can look at it again."

The resolution would ask the Legislature's support for a stand taken by Gov. J. J. Exon, who had earlier suggested the timetable is unrealistic.

That sentiment was echoed by Warner, the chief sponsor of resolution EU, and representatives of the cattle feeding industry.

The council has scheduled a March 20 public hearing in Lincoln on proposed guidelines.

Warner also said there is a shortage of soil conservation service personnel to aid feeders in meeting the deadline, a shortage of contractors to do the work should the deadline stand, and a shortage of federal funds.

Support for the resolution was voiced by the State Grange, the State Farm Bureau, the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, and the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association.

Bill To Simplify Amending Constitution Fails To Pass

By The Associated Press

The legislature killed a proposed constitutional amendment Monday which would have permitted a more simplified method of amending the state constitution than currently exist.

LB610, backed by the constitutional revision commission, was killed on a 23-17 vote.

Sen. John De Camp of Neligh, who offered the bill, objected to what he said is a "tendency to legislate by constitutional amendment."

The proposal would have permitted the legislature to amend entire sections of the constitution with a single amendment.

Another provision of the bill would have removed the current requirement that a proposed amendment receive approval of at least 35% of the votes cast in the election.

However, prior to the kill vote, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly won 24-12 approval to reinstate the 35% requirement in the bill.

Opposing the De Camp motion, Warner said it would "be helpful" to the legislature to be able to amend large sections of the constitution. He also suggested the amendment could lead to shorter ballots.

Also opposing De Camp, Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell contended adoption of the amendment would "make it possible for the legislature to do what a constitutional convention could do."

A convention would cost about $1 million, Whitney estimated, while the legislature could do the same job "for free."

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha supported De Camp and argued the proposal "would not be effective."

The Warner amendment drew support from Sen. Richard Proudt of Omaha, who said, "the constitution protects the rights of the minority."

Several senators suggested the 35% requirement was necessary to block a small minority of voters from enacting a constitutional amendment, should many of the voters not ballot on the proposed amendments.

Drug And Venereal Disease Treatment Measure Passes

By The Associated Press

A bill endorsed by the Nebraska Medical association authorizing examination and treatment of minors for drug addiction or venereal disease without parental consent was passed 25-21 on final reading in the legislature Monday. The support was the minimum necessary for passage.

A similar bill passed earlier had applied only to VD cases.

The new bill, Omaha Sen. David H. Stahler's LB1302, authorizes persons under 20 to give their consent to examination and treatment for VD or drug addiction. The health director or physician involved may notify parents or guardians "but shall not be obligated to, in accord with his opinion of what will be most beneficial for such person."

The measure protects physicians from civil or criminal liability for non-notification or treatment given, unless negligence is involved.

The bill, however, specifically prohibits the administering of the drug Methadone to minors without parental consent. Methadone is an addictive drug used as a substitute for heroin.

The legislation was recommended by the NMA's maternal and child health committee and unanimously

Nursing Home Rules Waiver Bill Advances

By The Associated Press

The State Health Department would be permitted to grant one-year waivers from requirements for the operation of nursing homes under provisions of a bill given overwhelming first round approval in the Legislature Monday afternoon.

Sen. William Skarda Jr. of Omaha said his LB1304 was aimed at protecting older nursing homes which he said are being forced out of business by costly requirements under health department rules.

The bill was advanced from general file on a 35-1 vote.

Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha supported the measure, warning senators "if we force the little homes out of business and require everyone to go to the larger homes, we're just increasing our welfare costs."

A large portion of welfare is spent to maintain elderly patients at nursing homes, Stahmer told his colleagues.

Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa contended that if the smaller homes are forced to close, "the people would be shipped to the county institutions where they would be warehoused."

Support for the measure was also voiced by Sen. Richard Lewis of Holbrook, who contended "we are an over-regulated society."

"The emotional stability of these old folks should be considered," Lewis said.

A bill designed to reimburse Nebraska's barbers for a license fee "overcharge" was advanced from general file on a 26-1 vote.

Lawmakers last year changed from Jan. 1 to July 1 the renewal date for barber licenses, with the result barbers found themselves paying the $10 annual fee twice within an 18-month period. The corrective bill, LB1183, reimburses the barbers $5 in the adopted by the NMA house of delegates.

NMA Executive Secretary Kenneth Neff, in a letter to Sen. Stahmer, described the problem faced by physicians in dealing with minors who do not wish parents to know of drug or VD conditions, but who need attention.

The letter said the physician often is faced also with the situation in which emergency care of a minor is necessary and it is not possible to obtain parental consent because the parent can not be reached and the babysitter or other person has not been given authority to permit care.

The NMA, however, still strongly supports the general philosophy that parental consent should be obtained, the letter said.

form of a credit on the next annual fee.

Senators deferred until later action on additional amendments proposed by Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha, described as making added corrections in 1971 barber legislation.

Advanced from general file 29-0 was LB1124, authorizing cities and villages to donate money to non-profit hospital corporations.

Action was deferred on LB1226, authorizing state banks to invest in privately insured mortgage loans on single and two family residences up to 95% of appraised value.

Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Carpenter said the bill was too loosely drawn and sponsoring Sen. Goodrich offered to help work out amendments to make the bill palatable.

A bill, LB928, authorizing school districts to contract with educational service units for certain additional services, fell one vote short of the receiving the 25 needed for advancement. As a result of the 24-6 vote, the bill remains stalled on general file.

A 27-0 vote advanced Fremont Sen. E. Thome Johnson's LB1213, allowing first class cities to invest surplus funds in bank certificates of deposit.

Court Won't Reconsider Judgment Against City

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court Monday refused to reconsider its decision to uphold the awarding of $18,601 in damages resulting from an accident involving an Omaha police car.

The action came in a refusal by the court to grant a rehearing on its December ruling in the case. The court clerk's office reported the denial was handed down without comment.

The suit was originally filed against the City of Omaha by Thomas J. Winston. Winston was the driver of a motorcycle that collided with a police car involved in the chase of a speeder.

Officer Clois W. Davis Jr. was driving the vehicle at the time.

The Douglas County District Court ruled Winston was entitled to damages, and the supreme court affirmed that decision in its original ruling and in Monday's rehearing denial.

The City of Omaha filed the rehearing motion saying the Supreme Court was cutting into the ability of enforcement agencies to try every means available to stop law violators.

The city contended the court was changing the public policy on such matters that required previously all drivers were to be on the lookout for emergency situations.

The high court also turned down a motion for rehearing on another December decision involving an Omaha Aid to Dependent Child (ADC) recipient convicted of fraud.

In its original decision, the high court affirmed the Douglas County District Court's conviction of Ophelia Bohannon for obtaining $3,000 in ADC money under false pretenses.

Mrs. Bohannon, who requested the rehearing on the high court's decision, had contended she tried to get off the ADC roles, but was not allowed to.

Prairie Dog Protection Bill Is Withdrawn

By United Press International

Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora Monday received legislative consent to withdraw his bill to protect the prairie dog.

Kremer told the senators some ranchers have objected to language in his bill, LB619, which would require court approval to make a neighbor conform in controlling the animals if they begin to encroach on the complainant's property.

Kremer said he had introduced the bill because present state law provides for "extermination" at state expense, which could be interpreted to include situations where they were not a nuisance.

Specifically, the Kremer bill would have taken away the state's responsibility to exterminate the animals.

Under the Kremer bill, a landowner could be cited for contempt of court if he refused to abide by a judge's order to control prairie dogs on his land and a complaint was made.

Douglas County Board Post Eyed By Sen. Morgan

Omaha (UPI) — State Sen. J. P. Morgan said Monday he will become a candidate for Douglas County commissioner.

Morgan, 31, has two more years on his legislative term. He said he would resign from the Unicameral if elected commissioner.

Morgan said he was entering the commissioner race because the Republican Party needs representation at the courthouse.

The present five members of the county board are Democrats.

Solons Support Holiday Change

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Legislature cycled on Congress Monday to revert back to original dates for the observance of Memorial Day and Veterans Day.

Memorial Day presently is observed on the last Monday in May, and Veterans Day, on the fourth Monday in October.

Nebraska enacted a law in 1969 putting the state in conformity with those federally-adopted dates.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Lincoln seems to be an unusually blessed city. Time after time it digs into a bag of tricks and pulls out just the medicine needed. This it has done in the case of the newly announced Hilton Hotel on 9th between O and P.

This new facility, 16 stories and 250 guest rooms, is scheduled for occupancy late in 1973. It is not really magic, nor is it any kind of trick, but it is a most fortunate development. The project is a tribute to the city and its people because it is not coming just by accident.

The Hilton chain doesn't do things by accident. Obviously, they see in Lincoln the potential that is essential to make a $6 million investment here pay off. Part of the reason they see this is that Lincoln has been a consistent growth area and stable economic community.

Lincoln has seen many of the changes that have disrupted other cities — the growth of suburbs, business losses downtown, a rupture of public transportation, etc. But the city has consistently bounced back with actions that have offset the liabilities incurred.

The new Hilton Hotel will be one such action. It gives Lincoln a guarantee of two fine hotel facilities downtown, the new Hilton and the renovated Cornhusker. This is an obvious asset to downtown Lincoln, both in terms of immediate and long-range impact.

Immediately, the new Hilton will make a dramatic improvement in the physical appearance of the area it will occupy, stimulating some of the other developments that have been discussed for the same general area. It will be a substantial building contract over the next 18 months with corresponding job potential for workers.

When completed, the Hilton will greatly expand employment in comparison with existing staff at the old Lincoln Hotel. And finally, it will be a center of additional activity in the downtown and that is the thing on which downtown Lincoln lives.

You can't have a successful downtown without people. People are customers and without them, you just can't do the business a retailer needs to do. Nor can you fill the office space, eating houses and other things that constitute a good downtown area.

In other words, the new Hilton will contribute to the business and economic activity of the area, something that will be of benefit to the entire community. One sure way it will serve this end is through the convention potential it will offer.

With the Cornhusker and the new Hilton, Lincoln should find itself in a position to serve just about all the convention business it could possibly get. Add to it such things as the new Ramada Inn and Holiday Inn near the Interstate and many other fine accommodations throughout the city and Lincoln continues to grow as a major focal point or meeting place in the region.

Once again, a major development has demonstrated that Lincoln is not one of those cities on the decline, not even in its downtown area. We are not by any means without our challenges but nobody ever throws in the towel.

The public and private sectors of the economy in Lincoln have worked in harmony to provide an atmosphere of pleasantness and opportunity. Development of the beautiful mall on 15th was a public project. A new twin theater operation and the new YMCA are private developments.

A financial institution will soon be building at 11th and N and the new First National Bank anchors downtown's southern edge. Private industry and city government may be cooperating on a new transportation, housing and retail complex on N Street in the downtown in the near future.

Many other things could be singled out in demonstration of the fact that Lincoln continues to grow with the times and holds a lot of promise for the future. Economic facts that are common to many cities are a part of the reason for this.

Another part of the reason is that Lincoln has a far-sighted business community and a general citizenry that is proud of the place in which it lives.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Pensions Reaching Astronomical Cost

NEW YORK — Now that President Nixon has warned us any return to prosperity depends on productivity, maybe it's time to point out the day is not far off when the government will be paying three separate salaries to get one job done.

And if you think this is an extravagance that might give pause even to a bureaucrat, you haven't been keeping up with the astronomical cost of public pensions. And you should; it comes out of your pocket.

Those three salaries for the same job? Here's how it works:

Let's say a policeman starts working at 20, quits on his 40th birthday, and retires on half pay. Another 20-year-old who is hired to replace him also retires at 40, also at half pay.

By the time a third policeman is hired (assuming a work-life for the job of some 40 years), the government is supporting two employees for every one that is working. Or, paying the equivalent of two full salaries for the same job.

For this eye-opener we have to thank Congresswoman Martha Griffiths from Michigan, who is the only lady member of the House Ways and Means Committee. In a recent issue of Tax Review, she says this generosity is "one of the things that is destroying America's cities."

As of now, there are approximately four million public employees receiving retirement checks. Almost a million more are under military retirement — and they have it best of all.

"Many of them also work for some form of government," Mrs. Griffiths says. "They are the only people who can draw full retirement and another full salary. There is such a thing as a grateful nation being too grateful."

The time has come, she thinks, to draw up some "sensible" rules on just how much the taxpayer can stand. And she is not alone in these sentiments.

City and state governments, faced with snowballing pension payments, are worrying that the day may come when there will be more public workers on retirement than working employees to foot the bills.

This state of affairs has been quietly sneaking up on the public for years, mostly because fat pension benefits don't seem as expensive as the immediate pay raise.

But once the program is written into the budget, it is a permanent cost, and nothing — not even the anguished cries of bankrupt cities — can reduce it.

There's only one hope: Convince employees to stay on the job longer. But that takes super power of persuasion, especially when a pension check, plus Social Security (or even a second job and a second retirement) often means a man can make more money by retiring than he can by staying on the job.

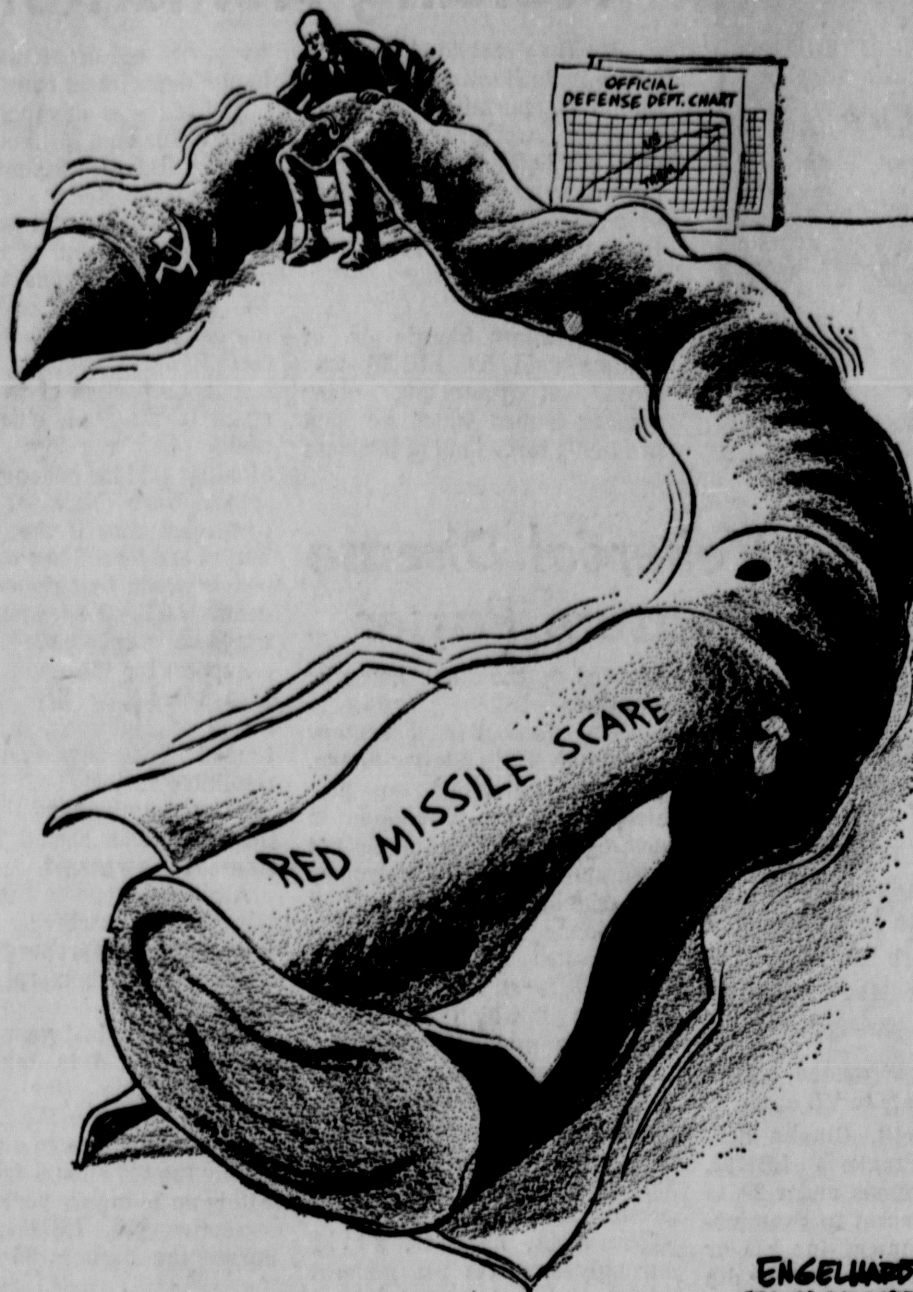

One labor negotiator considers this only fitting: "Obviously, a worker should retire the same income in retirement he was able to earn when employed."

Outrageous union demands? Maybe. But federal judges who reach 65 can now retire at full pay ($42,000), after only 15 years on the bench.

And, in keeping, here's another little fringe benefit: If President Nixon should decide not to run for another term, he could retire — after four years on the job — with an annual pension of $60,000.

Here We Go Again . . .

(Herblock is on vacation)

Nixon Yields To Realities

In the eyes of most of the rest of the world, the United States yielded to China, which did not retreat significantly from its positions on world affairs, and Premier Chou En-lai scored an impressive diplomatic victory in his conversations with President Nixon.

We don't think the President will come home feeling he has been bested or that he betrayed the interests of this country or its allies. The joint communique issued Sunday as it related to Taiwan is, as many diplomatic observers believe, a tribute to Nixon's realism. After all, he conceded that the question of who should govern Taiwan is one to be resolved internally by the Chinese themselves—which is as it should be. And he agreed that the U.S. would progressively reduce its forces and military installations from Taiwan and the other off-shore islands only as tensions diminish in that area of the world. This will allow the People's Republic of China to offer material proof of its good intentions.

As expected, no agreement was reached on Indochina and nothing certain was settled in the way of a timetable for establishing formal diplomatic relations between the U.S. and China. On the latter point, it is felt in some quarters that presidential summitry was not required in coming to agreement on the American "shadow ambassador" who will periodically meet with foreign office counterparts in Peking or in planning to increase contacts between Chinese and Americans through science, culture, technology, sports, journalism and trade.

Perhaps what agreement of substance that was reached might have been accomplished through talks at lower levels. But, aside from domestic political considerations, it clearly took a visit by an American president to forge a change in the attitude of the American people and, hopefully, the government of China, and to shock the rest of the world into realizing what the future holds for the Pacific.

Another result of the China trip seems to be the feeling that the prestige of the U.S. State Department suffered a severe setback because Sec. of State William Rogers did not sit in on the meeting with Chairman Mao and Henry Kissinger did. We thought that even before the trip took place that in private, at least, both Rogers and the President were comfortable with the fact that Kissinger, more than any other person, is the foreign policy expert of the United States.

Compromise Worked Out

Lincoln campus students, the administration and the University of Nebraska governing board this past weekend all took part in a common sense approach to resolving the dispute over dormitory visitation rules, thus avoiding what might have been a ridiculous confrontation between students and university authorities.

James Zumbege, the Lincoln campus' new chancellor, moved with dispatch Sunday to modify existing regulations to the effect that elected dormitory government officers may now act as sponsors for "open house" events. The regulations formerly stipulated that university faculty or staff members or parents must be present during visitation hours.

Student leaders who took part in working out the compromise indicated that students generally would support the new plan. Students earlier were proceeding with plans for a campus-wide violation of what they felt were unduly restrictive regulations beginning Monday.

And the University of Nebraska Board of Regents, individually polled by Zumbege over the weekend, assented to the compromise policy going into effect immediately, in advance of the board's next formal meeting, March 11. This represents a change from past policy and was a key factor in keeping a lid on the situation. Zumbege reported that his telephone conversations with the regents gave him "good reason to believe they will ratify this action" March 11.

The dormitory regulations now in effect still retain provisions that should please parents who by mail ballot rejected a more liberal visitation policy supported by students. All in all, it would appear that the situation on the Lincoln campus was appropriately handled.

Quality Education No Desegregation Substitute; Busing Remains First And Primary Consideration

NEW YORK — Many of those who oppose busing to achieve school desegregation say that, instead, they favor "quality education" — a vague concept which seems to mean a program of special education and more spending in schools attended primarily by disadvantaged children. This position — which roughly corresponds to President Nixon's — raises the questions whether quality education is possible without desegregation, and whether desegregation is possible without busing.

On the second of those questions, the answer is not much in doubt. Without busing programs, there would be no way to maintain, much less extend, the remarkable desegregation already achieved in the southern states, and without busing, there would be no way in the foreseeable future to do anything much about the remarkable segregation that still exists in the major cities of the North and West.

The first question is harder to answer. Many critics of busing contend that children in disadvantaged neighborhoods, or children in all-black or nearly all-black schools, can ultimately be brought up to national educational attainment levels by more spending and better instruction.

But the United States

Senate's Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity, after two years of hearings and study, has found that most available evidence suggests that disadvantaged children perform better in schools that have a majority of advantaged children. This result is not limited to blacks in white schools; disadvantaged white children, Indians, Chicanos — the committee's findings are that the education of all is likely to improve if they attend classes with more advantaged children.

Neither the committee staff nor the chairman, Walter Mondale of Minnesota, argue that this evidence is conclusive or that the proposition holds good in every case; and they concede that the situation in Berkeley, Calif., for instance, can be read in two ways.

There, disadvantaged black youngsters have moved approximately from five-tenths of a year's educational growth to eight-tenths — a 60 per cent rate of improvement since desegregation through a busing program. Nevertheless, at the eighth-grade level, these black youngsters still are at an educational level about five years behind their advantaged white classmates.

That suggests rather conclusively how inadequate, even destructive, education can be in ghetto or all-black schools. Less conclusively, it shows that a substantial improvement occurs in desegregated schools. But it is possible to argue — and some do — that the improvement is not great enough to warrant the political and social discontents that busing brings.

On the other hand, staff members of the select committee say there is no useful evidence at all to show that compensatory or special education programs in segregated or disadvantaged schools result in even such limited gains as those recorded in Berkeley. "With few exceptions," Mondale said last week, "an annual federal investment of $1.5 billion in compensatory education has little perceptible impact on mounting educational disadvantage."

That has to be measured against the evidence of the massive federal study called the Coleman Report, which found that the educational disadvantage of black children was substantially reduced by racial and economic integration; against the similar findings of a study of racial isolation conducted by the New York State Board of Regents; against the educational gains recorded in such successful desegregation programs as

Innocence Preserved

I would like to thank the 2,696 dear, sweet conservative parents who voted against the floor visitation policy for the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. I would also like to thank the Omaha World-Herald for printing their well-timed article on pregnancies on campus, which turned out to be unfactual. This article was printed two days before the polls took place.

Most other major college campuses have somewhat of a liberalized visitation policy. But thanks to the concerned parents and vote-conscious, job-worrying regents, we remain the sweet, wonderful college students that our parents were 30 years ago.

Ol' Swimming Hole

Salem, Ore.

When we were kids living near Steele City, Nebraska, we had a swimming hole in the Little Blue River down south towards Hollenberg, Kansas. It was the only place deep enough. Of course we went in in the raw.

They built a bridge just below our swimming place. Some of the ladies objected to our bathing there naked. They went to the justice of the peace and asked him to stop us. He said he would not do it. He said the kids had a prior right to it, and he even used it himself.

"But if you ladies will buy each one a bathing suit, I will ask them to wear them but I will not compel them to, and if you ladies don't like it, you can look down the river when you go across the bridge. But I will bet you would rather look up."

He told us all about it. Later

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What course of action can a mother take for a 2-year-old who won't eat properly. The only things my son will eat are bacon, oatmeal, mashed potatoes, and toast. (He also likes baked or boiled potatoes.) He won't eat eggs, vegetables, other cereals, or any other kind of meat. Oh, he also likes things that normal children like: candy, potato chips, French fries, ice cream, cake and cookies. The thing that gets me is that I can't even get him to taste food he isn't used to eating. Should I put him back on baby food again? How long will it be before he eats properly? (He gets vitamins.) — Mrs. R. J.

Don't take any vigorous "course of action." Be subtle.

The warfare between mothers and offspring about eating is endless — and as you've found out, when it gets down to cases, the youngster has the upper hand!

So don't force things. Don't make an issue of it. He may rebel even more. You'll do better by outsmarting him.

First of all, remember that childish appetites vary a lot. When a youngster is in a growing spurt, he'll eat. When he became county judge. That was about 1888.

Later some of the girls wanted to learn to swim, so we taught them. They had bathing suits. We wore old overalls cut off above the knees, as not many of us could afford suits. When one of the girls got pretty good, she challenged me to a race down the river to Hanover. Of course I let her win. A gallant knight would not do otherwise. We came back on a train after borrowing some robes from a friend there.

Time Will Tell

Bennet, Neb.

I am puzzled at the appearance of young Joseph Kennedy in the news lately. Is this the Klan's subtle approach of making young Joseph the all-American choice for some upcoming election?

His recent hijacking experience must be of some significance. I am suspicious of his saying the hijacking was "just too much." Do you remember a few weeks ago young Joseph on a bucking bronco in the South African round-up of wild animals? Here Joseph is pictured as the all-American rough-gutted boy. A little airplane detour shouldn't be too much I would think. But more down Joseph's line of adventure!

There has been too many unanswered questions in the average American mind about the Kennedys — I can't help but feel the Kennedy Clan is up to something. Only time will tell.

POLLY ROQUET

Amusing Comparison

Lincoln, Neb.

As long as I can remember I have thought of America's political process as a joke. That is why I was amused to read in he's not, there's not much way you can tempt his appetite.

Your son is getting protein in the bacon, oatmeal and ice cream. You didn't mention milk, but I presume that he drinks it. Most kids like it. You can bolster the protein content by making an eggnog or adding powdered dry milk. Flavors may strike his fancy — vanilla, chocolate, etc.

His nutritional state can be pretty well gauged by his height, weight and activity. I'm glad you give him vitamins. That's important in a case like this — until he gets to eating his vegetables and generally rounding out his diet.

Keep the goodies out of sight — the candy, chips, cake and cookies. If he manages to fill up on too much of that, you can't expect his appetite to lead him into trying other foods.

Make a fuss — occasionally — over some food or other, and ask him if he wants a taste. Don't overdo it or he'll see through your strategy. Don't reward him for being a "good boy" if he eats.

A trick that often works (although I do not guarantee it) is to offer a chop or chicken bone with a little meat on it. It's something to hold in his hands — and he may discover a taste he likes.

And don't be too impatient. This rebellious phase of not trying new foods may last several months until he enters a new growth spurt — and you start wondering if you can ever get him filled up!

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband says I do not eat enough. He says no human can survive on what I eat. We argue about it constantly. I like to eat lightly and always eat whatever and whenever I like. When I get up, coffee with milk and sugar; about 10, toast, coffee, small chunk of cheese and usually fruit. About 4:30, I like cottage cheese, fresh cooked vegetables, maybe a steak or other small serving of meat.

Some days I eat nothing but cheese, an apple, some crackers or nuts, occasionally a chocolate bar or an ice cream float. I average two glasses of milk a day, or maybe fruit juice. I am 5 feet 6, 43 years old, have weighed 130 pounds since high school, measure 35-25-35. I generally sleep five or six hours a night, work 8 to 10 hours a day as a dressmaker, keep our eight-room house, do my own shopping, cooking and laundry. I feel wonderful. When I get tired muscles from sitting at the sewing machine, I get up and jump rope five or 10 minutes. We bowl, and I babysit with my grandchildren sometimes. We have one girl left at home, age 12, and she eats about the way I do. She feels fine, too.—H.N.

You've kept your weight steady and your figure. What other proof do you need that you're eating enough? (Sounds like a nicely balanced diet, too.) So what's your husband complaining about?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been coloring my hair and my mother says it causes cancer. Now I am getting worried.—J.A.G.

No, it doesn't "cause cancer."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In regard to glaucoma, I have been told that drinking more than 48 ounces of fluid a day is bad—that is, water, juices, beer, etc. Is this so? If so why?—B.D.

It can be harmful. Essentially glaucoma involves excessive pressure inside the eyeball. Too much fluid in the body tissues can contribute to this. In fact, a water loading test (having the patient drink considerable water before testing eyeball pressure; is used at time in testing for glaucoma.

Since eye pressure tends to rise late in the day, one should be careful not to take excess fluids after the evening meal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In regard to polyps in the nose, could they be responsible for an offensive odor periodically? If so is surgery advisable even if there is no discomfort otherwise?—Miss M.G.S.

The polyp could be responsible for the odor—if infected secretions are present, and they could be, if the polyp is blocking proper drainage.

Surgery? I pass that question to a nose-throat specialist who can advise you better. If he feels sure that the trouble will increase, he may advise surgery now rather than waiting for discomfort.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to make a donation to a foundation doing research on lupus erythematosus or diabetes, as a memorial to a departed friend, but don't know of such. Could you give me this information?—I.P.H.

I am not familiar with such an organization devoted to lupus, but contributions for diabetes research would be welcome, either through a local chapter or the national headquarters. American Diabetes Association, 18 East 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could minerals in drinking water contribute to buritis?—M.G.

No.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright 1972, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Truck Caravans Adding To NFO Store Of Grain

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The National Farmers Organization (NFO) Monday continued to add to its store of grain at Nebraska City as corn caravans from various areas of the state gathered at an elevator leased by a group to store grain in an effort to attract a volume buyer.

"What we are doing is the same thing the major grain companies do. We are accumulating grain for bulk shipment either by rail or by barge to any market that may become available at an advantageous price. The only real difference is that the farmers still own their own grain. Any price increase that is obtained will be passed back to the farmer rather than become the profits of a grain company," said John Oster, assistant director of the grain department at NFO headquarters in Corning, Iowa.

The elevator at Nebraska City is leased by a group of NFO members who have formed a non profit corporation for this specific purpose. The NFO members pay storage just as they would at any elevator. The corporation does not own the grain but only provides storage and handling. Hopefully, fees charged for storage and handling will pay the bills.

"The NFO acts as bargaining agent for the farmers in selling the grain which has sufficient volume to meet the needs of any buyer whether domestic or for export. Grain in a single order may be gathered from several such elevators as the one at Nebraska City," said Oster.

A convoy of 26 large trucks and 2 pickups left Syracuse at 9:30 Monday morning headed for the Nebraska City elevator with large loads of corn.

"We have corn today, on other days we receive oats, soybeans, wheat, milo, whatever have to ship," explained Joe Zitek, area NFO grain chairman.

Grain from Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, and Missouri NFO members is stored at the elevator awaiting that hoped-for sale.

Farmers gathered at Syracuse were warned to follow the lead pickup and to avoid streets not marked for trucks. Apparently a group of NFO members from Minnesota had gotten lost in Nebraska City and driven on streets not designed for trucks causing concern of local officials about damage to the streets.

"I guess we will have to get some signs up designating the truck route for farmers who haven't been to the elevator in Nebraska City before," Zitek said.

The caravans help guide farm trucks to the elevator but they tend to draw attention to the NFO's effort to raise grain prices as well. "We have got to make a noise some way. This thing they are doing in Washington, setting farm corn prices at $1.10 is madness," said Zitek.

Near $400 Taken From Auburn Safe

Auburn — Thieves forced three doors at the Auburn office Sunday night of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Auburn and made off with a safe containing about $400 in cash and checks, Police Chief Gerald McCue reported Monday. He said the thieves used one of the telephone company's carts to haul the safe out of the building. The criminal investigation division of the State Patrol and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are assisting with the investigation.

Kansas Firm Is Low Bidder For New Activities Building

The State Department of Public Institutions disclosed Monday that the Western Construction Co. of Salina, Kansas, was the low bidder for general construction work for the activity building at the Beatrice State Home.

The Western bid was $372,800 — lowest among a field of nine firms.

Other bids were: M. W. Anderson Co. of Lincoln, $407,990; The Beall Co. of Lincoln, $414,333; Walt Broer Co. of Lincoln, $425,800; Busboom Rauh Co. of Salina, Kan., $432,800; Geo. Cook Co. of Lincoln, $415,505; C & R Engineer Co. of Beatrice, $419,666; L. R. Foy of Hutchinson, Kan., $437,819; and the McKinney Co. of Lincoln, $388,200.

For the plumbing contract, the Interstate Mechanical Co. of Reserve, Kan., submitted the low bid of $121,000.

Five other firms also bidded on the plumbing contract. They were: W. F. Anderson of Holdrege, $127,170; Bee-Jay Plumbing of Lincoln, $146,645; Best Co. of Beatrice, $131,487; W. R. Lesoing Co. of Lincoln, $152,246; and Western Mechanical Co. of Topeka, $149,415.

The Omaha-based firm of Briteway had the low bid of $48,900 for the electrical work on the recreation facility.

Other bids were: ABC Electric Co. of Lincoln, $59,200; Energy Enterprises of Lincoln, $56,106; the Geneva Co. of Geneva, $58,500; O.K. Electric of Lincoln, $59,500; and Omaha Electric Works, $56,400.

Carl Botsford of the Dept. of Institutions said the Department of Administrative Services will have the final say in the matter of who the bids are awarded to.

State Asking Death Penalty For Jacobs

Omaha — The state said Monday it would ask the death penalty for 31-year-old Robert Julian Jacobs of Omaha, charged with first degree murder in the fatal stabbing of Allen Schmidt, 12, last October.

Jacobs also is charged with stabbing with intent to kill, wound or maim in connection with the wounding of Allen's 10-year-old brother, Leslie.

In its opening statement the state characterized the slaying of Allen Schmidt as murder and assault, deliberate and premeditated.

The defense said it would rely on three principles: that capital punishment is cruel and unusual and therefore unconstitutional; that capital punishment serves no use in our society; and that the defendant was emotionally defective at the time of the act and should not be subjected to the death penalty.

Jacobs waived his right to jury trial but he has pleaded innocent to the charge.

Governor's Commission Enters Slaying Dispute

Cozad — The Governor's Commission on Mexican Americans has entered the dispute involving the release of two of three men originally arrested in connection with the knife slaying of Benjamin L. Martinez, 25, on a Cozad street Feb. 19.

The Rev. Robert Navarro of Omaha, commission legislative liaison representative, was in Cozad Sunday to assure Mr. Martinez' family of assistance. He said the commission discussed the case at a meeting in Lincoln Saturday.

"We didn't come to prejudice the case," the Rev. Mr. Navarro said. "We came to gather all information possible and to assure Gil Martinez that we will assist him in securing legal counsel and in any fund drives necessary to pay the fees of such counsel."

Some 60 persons staged a peaceful demonstration outside the Dawson County Courthouse last Thursday, protesting the release of Jessie Jackson of Cozad and Jimmy Linderman of Clarendon, Ark.

Still in jail and charged with second degree murder is David T. Suggett, 22, of Cozad.

Witnesses said Jackson and Linderman were with Suggett before and after the slaying and were arrested with him, but Dawson County Atty. Willard Weinhold said they were released the following Tuesday because "there is nothing to indicate they tried to hide or help him (Suggett)."

The Rev. Mr. Navarro said: "Our main concern is that Mr. Martinez has not received legal counsel as to what his rights are as the father of the victim."

"We feel this counsel should have been made available to him as soon as possible after the slaying. But we have learned that nobody offered him legal advice."

The Rev. Mr. Navarro said the commission's report would be given to the Nebraska attorney general by Tuesday and he would be asked to become an active participant. "He then has the prerogative to send us to talk to the Dawson attorney or to do it himself."

Relatives and friends also were circulating petitions asking the help of the attorney general. Their goal was 1,000 signatures.

Range Fire Sweeping Across Dry Sand Hills

Lakeside — A range fire which was reported to have started when a brush fire got out of control raced some nine miles between the Arnold Black ranch south of Lakeside to south of Bingham Monday despite the efforts of all fire departments and scores of ranchers with their own equipment.

No buildings or livestock were reported involved.

The blaze was whipped along the tinder-dry Sand Hills grass by winds which were measured as much as 40 to 50 miles in velocity in nearby Alliance.

The area has had only .08 of an inch of moisture so far in 1972 on the end of an extremely dry winter.

It was not immediately learned how wide the fire was, but it was estimated to have burned along a 9-mile path in less than three hours.

It was even reported to have crossed a road in the area.

Two ranchers flew overhead in radio equipped planes helping ground crews battle the flames.

A prairie fire was also reported west of Bridgeport late Monday afternoon, but there was no immediate information about that fire other than that it was substantial.

Winds in the area were estimated at about 35 miles per hour.

Dry Top Soil Is Reported Across State

Top soils are becoming dry in numerous areas of Nebraska, with the exception of the northeast, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

In its weekly crop-weather report, the bureau said windy conditions early last week caused blowing dust and light soil erosion on open fields.

Winter wheat remains in good to excellent condition in most areas of the state, the report noted. And the crop started greening in the extreme southeast.

Mild weather brought a speed up in farm activities. A few farmers started apply fertilizer and liming materials to fields and pastures, the report said.

"Livestock condition was generally good with warm temperatures aiding newborn animals," the report disclosed.

"Lambing and farrowing operations are well under way and calving is making good progress."

Caucuses Set For McGovern Delegate Slate

Omaha — Caucuses in each of the three Congressional Districts to name delegate candidates for Democratic Presidential Contender George McGovern were announced Monday.

The candidates will run in the May 9 primary election.

The caucuses will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the McGovern office in Lincoln for the 1st District, at 8 p.m. Thursday in Omaha at the McGovern State Headquarters for the 2nd District, and at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Kearney State College Student Union for the 3rd District.

Spring Market Hog Show Is Termed A Big Success

The Capitol Pork Producers annual spring market hog show at Syracuse was termed a success by Oteo county agent, Marvin Hoffman.

The show attracted 110 people for the judging contest and 94 market hogs.

The top purebred hog was shown by Gerdes and Jurgens of Wymore and the top commercial hog by Mark Berg of Lincoln.

Top individual judges were Max Hoffman of Wilbur, adult division; Gary Smith of Syracuse, 4-H division and Doug Nisly of Palmyra, winner of the FFA division.

Team No. 2 of the Palmyra FFA Chapter won the FFA team division and the top 4-H team was the Practical Feeders 4-H club from Oteo County.

Data on the carcass evaluation contest will be made available by Wilson and Company which slaughtered the hogs.

The Capitol Pork Producers club includes pork producers from Johnson, Oteo, and Cass Counties.

Lindsay Delegate Caucus Planned

The Nebraska coordinator for New York City Mayor John Lindsay's presidential primary campaign announced Monday a district delegate caucus would be held Wednesday.

Donald Geis of Lincoln said the meeting would be held at "Der Loaf and Stein" restaurant at 8 p.m.

Geis said anyone interested in filing as a Democratic National Convention delegate from the First Congressional District, committed to Lindsay, is invited to attend.

Going to move? Then notify the Circulation Dept. so you won't miss your paper. Be sure to give both old and new address.

Girl Hospitalized With Head Injury Following Crash

Barbara K. Metz, 19, of 426 No. 16th was listed in good condition with a head laceration Monday at Lincoln General Hospital following a one-car accident about 1:30 a.m.

Police said Miss Metz was northbound on 27th when the car she was driving struck the guard rail of the Salt Creek bridge near Cornhusker Hwy.

Damage to the car was reported as extensive while damage to the bridge was estimated as $200.

Fines Proposed

Manila (UPI) — A bill has been introduced in the Philippine Senate that would impose fines of from $16 to $834 on the telephone company when a subscriber's phone is out of order, disconnected by mistake or wire-tapped.

Compromise On Dorm Visits Satisfactory To Both Sides

Student and administrative leaders at the University of Nebraska were pleased Monday that the coed visitation compromise had been reached and that a confrontation on the issue was headed off.

"All the students I've talked to are satisfied with the change and are happy that a confrontation was avoided," said Steve Fowler, president of the UNL student government organization.

NU President D. B. Varner called the compromise a "reasonable" solution to a "difficult situation" and said both students and Chancellor James Zumberge should be commended for working out the agreement.

Varner said he "anticipated the regents would accept it."

The policy change led student leaders to cancel a massive protest for Monday night, when students had planned to violate the old regulations in defiance of administrative disciplinary proceedings.

The change of policy, announced by Zumberge Sunday, will permit student residence hall officers to sponsor the so-called RHA hours plan that has been in existence for several years.

Formerly, a faculty member, parent or a paid university staff member had to be present on a floor which instituted the six-hour visitation policy on any one day.

Students indicated that those conditions put rather stringent limitations on the number of "open-house" events that could be held, merely because of the unavailability of persons to sponsor them.

The change will mean elected officers of dormitory floor governments can act as sponsors of the open houses, during which guests of the opposite sex are permitted in rooms as long as doors are left open.

The policy modification was apparently worked out in meetings Friday and Saturday between student leaders, Office of Student Affairs staff members and Zumberge.

Chancellor Zumberge deserves real credit for listening to the students and understanding their point of view," said Fowler.

"This may have settled visitation as an issue for a couple of years," he said.

Some of the dormitories moved quickly to institute the new plan, voting to call for an RHA hours night Monday.

A random check of dormitories showed that the number of floors participating ranged from as few as two or there in one dorm to all the floors in another.

As with the old regulations, any floor may vote to hold an RHA hours night any day of the week, setting a maximum of six hours between noon and one-half hour before regular closing time.

Former Lincoln Man's Death Ruled An Apparent Suicide

The death of a former Lincoln man in Reno, Nev., has been ruled an apparent suicide, according to Washoe County, Nev. authorities.

Washoe County Coroner William Beemer said Raymond

R. Gavin, 60, was found dead Friday in his Reno apartment.

Gavin attended high school in Lincoln and was a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Gavin began his career as a track apprentice on the Burlington Railroad in Lincoln. He rose to superintendent of the Burlington division in Hannibal, Mo., and in 1951 was named general manager of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville (Monon) Railroad.

He later resigned this position to take a commission in the U.S. Army. He was awarded a bronze star in Korea and left the Army as a lieutenant-colonel.

He also headed a railroad unit in Nicaragua before retiring.

Nebraska City Man Fined, Put On Probation

Omaha (UPI) — Jack E. Sedoris, former cigar store owner and bookmaker at Nebraska City, received two years' probation and was fined $500 Monday by U.S. District Judge Richard E. Robinson.

The penalties were on one count of an eight-count indictment accusing Sedoris of willfully trying to evade federal wagering taxes.

U.S. Atty. William K. Schaphorst said the government charged Sedoris had filed monthly wagering excise tax returns from February 1967 through September 1967 showing he had accepted gross wagers of $19,466 when he should have reported $60,178.

Richard P. Vinal, district director of internal revenue for Nebraska, said Sedoris is liable for all additional taxes and interest and may be liable for a 50% civil fraud penalty in addition to the two years' probation and the $500 fine.

Aylesbury, England — Soccer fans at a game here were startled when a player pulled off his sweatshirt and rushed into action. He had forgotten his shorts.

Open House Held For Centenarian At Elm Creek

Lincoln Star Special
Elm Creek — About 350 persons gathered here Sunday for the open house honoring Mrs. Sarah Johnson, who reached the century mark Friday.

All five generations of Mrs. Johnson's family were represented at the event. And her 13 children were in attendance.

Untouched Sofa Upsets Reader

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "Our daughter's son Bill, 21, attends a state university not far from our home. He dropped by with his fiancée one evening last week. When they were about to leave his car battery went dead and the local garage was closed. So we invited them to spend the night. I gave the girl the guest room and fixed the sofa in the living room for Bill. They were gone when we got up the next morning, and I couldn't help noticing that Bill's sofa was untouched while her bed had definitely been used. We're Methodists and don't approve of this kind of behavior. We're thinking of telling our daughter and letting Bill know we don't want him bringing girls like this to our home. Do you blame us?"

Answer: — What good would that do? Telling your daughter might simply upset her, and reprimanding Bill and the girl may just create a permanent rift. You may not approve of their behavior, but as a young engaged couple they're not going to change their ways just because Grandma and Grandpa don't understand. By the time youngsters get into their 20s their moral standards are firmly set—and these standards are probably just about as high today as they were half a century ago.

Question: — "My twin sister and I are both 66 years old, reared under identical circumstances, I'm content being an average housewife with a husband retired from the sanitation department. But my sister pretends to grandeur. Her husband had a minor job at the bank and left her very little—just enough to cover living expenses and taxes on the house. But Sis spends most of her time trying to impress people. She tells folks her husband was a big financier. She spends more on clothes than on groceries, uses a long cigarette holder and a phony English accent. Her latest gambit was to spend $600 on a broken down old Rolls-Royce she keeps parked in her driveway because she thinks it's classy. What's to be done?"

Answer: — She sounds like an interesting old fraud. Something in her genes must cry out for aristocratic recognition. You apparently yearn to put her down and crumple this pitiful facade. But why rob her of what may be her only source of satisfaction? The kindest thing you can do is to go along with her af-

Youth will be served, and the service has been excellent lately. If it doesn't come fast enough, self service is the word.

"More than one million students and persons under 30 will travel to Europe this year." So says a reliable source in today's mail. (Ever hear of an unreliable source?)

That is a lot of people, people. One million—about half of all Americans on the Grand Tour. Youth is taking over the world. (And welcome to it, says I.)

Rainy winter weather around my seaside scatter at Snug Harbor. Gulls screaming at each other. (Big cat fight last night. Meowrrrrr! Hiss!)

I splashed down for lunch at The Trident in Sausalito. In this rock restaurant, everybody is under 30. And everybody is headed for some outer limits.

Though I've written a lot about youth travel, not one of these chicks has read it. I give the name. "Table for one, please."

"How do you spell it?" These are the things that keep you humble.

Youth (if you don't know it) is taking over America. Half the population is under 25.

The buying power is terrific. Today's youth is loaded. Millions of dollars is spent advertising to the Pepsi generation. (Who reads it?)

Youth is urged to buy crisper potato chips. To drink colder colas. To stuff themselves with slushy hamburger stuff that can be plastered on buns.

Young men are advised on hair spray that will drive the muffins wild, wild, wild!

Youth did not get much of a time of day when I was swinging on gate. Hardly anybody was under 25.

Nearly everybody was old. Old and crotchety.

"How many times have I told you not to slam the door?"

"Don't you ever put your napkin in your lap?"

"Did you wash your hands?"

There was no TV. No instant soft drinks—we were instant boys.

Grandma said: "Get in the house this instant or I'll take the ruler to you."

Grandfather said: "Straighten up. Don't slouch." There's a teen-age guide to the stock market, and why not? It's the biggest game in town.

Youth is cool. Youth is mellow. The service is very good, I'd say.

A college girl and her boy friend took an apartment together. The college did not approve. They took away her cafeteria privileges. She will have to brown bag it and eat on the lawn.

In Mexico City, Arturo, 22 young years, will be somewhat older when he gets out of the moan-and-wail.

Arturo has 12 wives. He had a clever reason though. "I'm irresistible," Arturo told the judge.

And I'd judge that is an ever-loving fact.

Family Tradition Spans The Globe

By LINDA OLIGE
Her grandfather's words to the wise and the patriotic were that "One must be faithful to a country and prove himself worthy of that country."

His granddaughter listened. Service to country and community is nothing new to Mrs. Dale W. Hidy, whose family has had a tradition of service to one country or another for more than 100 years. That same grandfather once served on the city council of Vienna, Austria.

Mrs. Hidy, who now is a citizen of the United States, having come here from her native Austria in 1953 -- recently was awarded the Daughters of the American Revolution Americanism Medal for outstanding service to the community by a naturalized citizen.

One of the major community services includes the position of director of the fine arts department at the Bennett Martin Library. But Mrs. Hidy has many irons in the fire -- She is active in various civic groups, makes public speaking appearances, and chats with immigrants new to the country. She was a student of the arts at Vienna and Salzburg Universities, as well as in Switzerland, where she met her husband.

"What I did (to earn the medal) was rather fun and was not a duty in any sense of the word," Mrs. Hidy said. "Since I had to do so many things during the German occupation of Austria and Hungary -- things that I would not choose to do, such as stand in bread lines for as long as six hours -- I promised myself that I would never again do anything that I did not want to do or that was unpleasant."

Mrs. Hidy admitted that she likes to be involved only in what she thinks is good for the community -- and the same is true of her family members who still reside in Austria, as well as those who have located in Chile.

She said that seeing a country is quite important before deciding whether to become a citizen. Following the family tradition Mrs. Hidy asked permission for naturalization from her grandfather since her father was deceased. The family patriarch, who had many years before commented that Europeans were sitting on a powderkeg, granted the request.

Commenting on Europe, Mrs. Hidy said, "It is not all mountains and lakes there. One must make his place among people, but Europe is not a place to trust people."

"Here we have a peaceful existence; we are free to do as we please, and people can be trusted," she said. "I am too convinced that life is so much better here that I would not choose to live there again, although I do like to return for a visit." Her mother resides in Innsbruck, Austria, and she has other relatives in Vienna.

"There are little bits of Europe all over," she said. "If I want to see England, I can go to New England, and if I want Spain, I can go to New Mexico."

As a native European, she said that she admires the United States for having accomplished in such a short time, what took Europe some 800 years to do. "Old and new countries, by cooperative efforts, can help each other to find a happy medium," she added.

Her efforts with other immigrants to this country help ease the stranger through periods of wondering whether or not they did the right thing by coming here. One very important point that she makes to the newcomers is that they see a country as its native citizens see it.

Seeing the United States from a naturalized citizen's standpoint, particularly from Mrs. Hidy's point of view, can make even the most disgruntled citizen proud to be an American.

Family Dinner

The PTA of Brownell School will meet on Tuesday evening, Feb. 29, and the evening will begin with a 6:30 o'clock family box dinner.

During the program, life memberships will be awarded, and students will present a series of lectures on drama, music and physical education.

MISS SANDRA KESS

This morning Mr. and Mrs. David B. Kess make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sandra Kay, to Harold Lynn Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Davis of Nemaha.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, April 22, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Rosemont Christian and Missionary Alliance Church.

Miss Kess is careering with the State of Nebraska Investment Council.

Mr. Davis, who attended the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma fraternity, is engaged in farming near Brownville.

suburbia

News flashes during the past week centered on President Nixon's successful trip to China -- however, when the announcement of Elizabeth Taylor's 40th birthday diamond from her husband, Richard Burton, made the wires, news of the President took the conversational back seat.

It seems that the huge diamond was Burton's second choice--he originally set out to purchase the Taj Mahal.

We have news this morning of an investment club located in one of the suburban neighborhoods. The members are in it for enjoyment and for whatever money they can pick up--not that they are expecting returns great enough to make such an impressive buy.

The Money Makers met on Friday evening at the Lincoln Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Hutson. Members of the successful year-old club are Mr. and Mrs. James Mastera, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gustin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Semm, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Geiger, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jacob, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brass, Mr. and Mrs. George Bool, Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Giebelhaus, Mr. and Mrs. David Krum, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Reisdorff.

Recent guests at the Kimballcrest home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jiracek and their daughters, Kimberly and Jennifer, were Mr. Jiracek's mother, Mrs. Ed Jiracek, and his brother, Don Jiracek, both of Verdigris.

And while the out-of-towners were visiting in Lincoln's suburban areas, Don Jiracek just happened to find himself right in the middle of a birthday celebration.

Family dinner guests for the birthday party were the Jiracek brothers' sisters, Mrs. Neal Sandoz and Mrs. Lee Barta--as well as Mr. Barta, and the Barta and Sandoz children.

Another guest during a recent weekend was Miss Sandra Jeter of Kansas City, Mo., who was entertained by Miss Kimberly Jiracek. It seems that Miss Jeter is a member of the Kansas City Youth Symphony Orchestra which made a Lincoln appearance a weekend ago. The Kansas City youths stayed in the homes of Youth Symphony Orchestra members here and the Lincoln group returned the visit last weekend.

But that's not all that has taken place in the Jiracek household. It seems that Mr. Jiracek was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday-dinner party at his home recently -- and additional guests, members of the Colonial Dance Club, dropped in later in the evening to extend their best wishes.

Putting a flair in the daily menu can not only help change the mealtime routine but adds interest to the dinner table as well. On Friday evening, Mrs. Vernon Westberg of Trendwood was one of the many members of the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary who participated in its Foreign Food Bazaar that was held at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. The participants submitted dishes with origins from all over the world. Mrs. Vernon's contribution was a French Quiche Lorraine.

Mr. and Mrs. Vladislav Sobotka left their South Brook Summit home on Friday evening to drive to Otoe for a very special occasion -- the wedding of Mr. Vladislav's nephew, Michael McCrory, who was married to Miss Linda Ross.

But, that is not all of the travelling the Sobotkas have done recently. A week ago Sunday they took a lovely drive to Plattsmouth, where they visited with Mrs. Sobotka's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Williamson. The two couples spent the afternoon together and then had a Sunday dinner at the Williamson's home before the Sobotkas returned to Lincoln.

The beautiful weekend weather made the drive to Kearney even nicer for Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Goin of South Hills on Saturday. There was a special reason for the trip -- a belated birthday celebration for Mrs. Goin's mother, Mrs. Duane Day, whose birthday fell on Monday, Feb. 21. The Goins also brought along their daughter, Angela, who was delighted to be a part of the festivities. Another visitor at the Day home was Mrs. Goin's brother, Eugene Dorn of Beatrice. The Goins returned to Lincoln on Sunday.

Tradition Becomes Young Again

Karl Steinhauer AID, NSID, internationally-known decorator, has a rare talent for creating rooms that are not only liveable, believable and affordable, but are efficient users of time and space.

He has created six multi-purpose, "1972 Living Bedrooms" which are to be featured in the October issue of House Beautiful. This one, "Present Past", is an exciting example of how you can turn a 13' x 17' bedroom into a gracious conversation-tea for two reading room, as well as a sleeping room.

With an artful mixture of old Queen Anne furniture pieces, and furniture in lacquered yellow, Mr. Steinhauer brings the past into the present with wit and charm.

Extremely interesting is the architectural use of wood to frame the ceiling suggesting an early English manor. The apple green velvet carpet and upholstered easy chair bring a most modern feeling to this room.

The "Present Past" bed - sitting - room makes tradition look young again. One of 1972 living rooms designed by Mr. Steinhauer, shows how drapery rods can be utilized for more exciting decorating. Antique brass "Renaissance" traverse rods are designed to have the right look for this bed and sitting Queen Anne inspired room. Rods trim the window, room dividers, the elegantly wallpapered canopy and bed curtains. The antique brass finished rods and heavy gold-textured draperies give the room a rich, warm feeling.

"Renaissance" is one of a new family of Reeded Romantics traverse rods. This romantic revival features 1½-inch diameter decorative reeded rods with self-locating rings on the master carriers that always permit precise positioning of the leading pleat on draperies. Front view is clean and uninterrupted as the rod snaps into heavy-duty brackets that are concealed behind the front face. Large ball-bearing pulley wheels are designed to provide effortless cord pull as the rings glide along Emralon coated track surfaces for smooth movement of the draperies.

Mr. Steinhauer has effectively divided the sleeping area from the sitting area by keeping the small wood dividers on either side of the room open. The same gold wallpaper as in the sleeping area, is cut out and scalloped on the top, and the antique brass "Renaissance" traverse rods placed at chair rail height are used to hang white curtains.

The same antique brass "Renaissance" traverse rods and two-tier gold textured curtains on the windows add to the warmth of the room.

A decorating trick Mr. Steinhauer used here is the canopied effect over the king-size classic bed. The back panel is "Scarborough" pattern wallpaper and the front is merely gold textured wallpaper mounted on plywood, scalloped, and hung from the ceiling beam. Gold swagged side curtains complete the effect.

Mr. Steinhauer used dozens of unique decorating ideas in this "Present Past Living Bedroom." You can adapt many of these ideas to create your own "Living Bedroom" at home.

Opening lead—two of diamonds.

Bridge is not the type of game where a defender can play first, think later and expect to fare well. If he does, he will have to pay the piper for his indiscretions from time to time.

Consider this deal where West led a diamond against six hearts. East won the queen with the ace and returned a club.

South had a choice of many ways of playing the hand, but he found the right solution when he won with the ace, drew trumps, cashed the A-K of spades and ruffed a spade. The king of diamonds then served as an entry to the spades and declarer easily took the rest of the tricks to score 1,730 points.

Offhand it might seem that East-West were helpless in the matter. But actually this was not the case and, had the defense functioned more efficiently, South would have gone down at least one.

East was the player at fault. It was wrong for him to play the ace of diamonds on the queen at trick one. Instead he should have played the three.

Had he done this, declarer's goose would have been cooked. No matter which way he turned, the slam would have failed. By ducking the queen, East would have denied declarer the crucial entry he needed to utilize dummy's spades.

Moreover, East could tell from examining dummy's hand and his own that to duck would almost surely be a better move than to win the trick. The one thing East could not afford to do was to instinctively win the opening lead with the ace and then start to think of what to do next.

Abby: pass them on

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I sure do agree with "Sick of Christmas." And your advice on how to break the endless cycle of giving gifts to relatives and friends you never see was the only sensible solution.

We tried to do it in our family three years ago. We all said, "Okay, no more Christmas presents!" Then at Christmastime here comes my husband's sister with gifts for everybody! Then we all had to rush out and buy her and her family something. I could have kicked her in the teeth!

Right now I have four waffle irons, five electric blankets, and three steam irons that have never been out of their original boxes. I won't even tell you how many bottles of perfume and toilet water I have stuck away on my shelf. What's wrong with people, Abby?

Why can't they be more sensible?

ALSO SICK OF CHRISTMAS
DEAR ALSO: They? You should give to the needy — not the greedy. Why don't you give some of those duplicate gifts to some poor soul who could use them?

DEAR ABBY: "Three Time Loser" said, "I gave him the best years of my life."

Well, if they were the best years of HER life, surely HE must have had something to do with making them so.

After being married 25 years, my husband left me. Altho I am unhappy without him, I'm thankful that HE gave me the best years of MY life. I only wish I could have given him the best years of HIS life.

This reads a little Pollyannaish, but I'm telling it like it is. Thanks for listening.

Mary

THE COOK'S NOOK

Menu planning is just a little more difficult than usual at this time of the year. The appeal of more or less heavy foods is fading — and so are appetites.

Something different is what the chef in your kitchen is looking for, and this morning we have it in this braided crust salmon loaf.

Then, too, desserts are the unanimous choice of the members of the average family — We're passing along some ideas on dessert, too.

2 cups (16 oz. can) salmon
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion or 1 tablespoon instant mixed onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons All Purpose Flour

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 bouillon cube
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped parsley or parsley flakes
2 cans (8 oz. each) Refrigerated Quick Crescent Dinner Rolls
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine, if desired
Celery seed, if desired
Oven 375 degrees
6 to 8 servings

Drain and flake salmon; reserve liquid. In medium saucepan, saute celery and onion in butter until tender. Remove from heat; stir in flour, salt and pepper until well blended. Add enough milk to reserved salmon liquid to make ½ cup; stir in lemon juice and bouillon cube. Add to flour mixture all at once. Cook, stirring constantly about one minute until thickened. Stir in salmon, eggs and parsley; set aside.

Separate each can of crescent dough into 2 large rectangles. Place rectangles crosswise on ungreased cookie sheet, overlapping long sides to form a 15x13-inch rectangle. Firmly press edges and perforations to seal (this prevents separation during baking).

Spread salmon mixture in about a 5-inch wide strip down center of dough within 1 inch of ends. Make diagonal cuts 2 inches apart on each long side of rectangle just to edge of filling. Fold short ends of rectangle over filling 1 inch. Fold opposite strips of dough over filling, alternating from side to side and slanting strips downward to give a braided appearance. Tuck ends of last 2 strips under to seal. If desired, brush with melted butter; sprinkle with celery seed. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown.

Tips: Reheat, loosely wrapped in foil, at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes until heated through.

To make ahead, prepare,

Two Building Proposals Given Council Go-Ahead

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Two building proposals received the final go-ahead from the City Council Monday following a two-week delay in which the developers and city departments met to iron-out differences.

The council approved a special permit for C. E. Corning to build a 29-unit apartment complex, with parking facilities and a recreational area, on about five acres of land, at 63rd St. and Holdrege.

Corning had objected to several conditions recommended by city departments, including construction of a five-foot storm sewer. In a compromise worked out with the city an open drainage storm sewer will be permitted instead.

However, Councilman Harry Peterson objected to the open drainage ditch from a safety aspect and suggested that a chain fence be erected to guard both sides of the ditch.

Corning replied that it was "senseless to put up a few fences and leave more dangerous ditches open in other sections of town."

Council member Helen Boosalis favored enclosing the storm sewer as originally proposed.

Corning said it was unrealistic to put in a closed storm sewer, which would cost $30,000.

Before voting on the matter Peterson pointed out that he was not against the development in light of the need for housing in Lincoln — but that he opposed the open ditch. The council unanimously approved the permit.

The council also approved a special permit for Peterson Construction Co. to build about 393 units in Southwood Hills, in the vicinity of the Lincoln Industrial Park.

As its Feb. 15th session the council had postponed action on both building proposals to give the developers time to work out areas of disagreement with the city departments.

In other action the council in a split 5 to 2 vote overrode the City-County Planning Commission who had recommended denying a change of zone request of the United Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The church and Clyde Bauers requested a zoning change from A-2 Single Family to D Multiple to build 42 apartment units on one-half block in Havelock, on the east side of 60th St., bounded by Benton and Fremont. Under the A-2 zoning only six units could be built.

Mrs. Boosalis objected to the development on the Havelock st., calling for development in older sections of town first.

She pointed out, "I'm not against the development — but the location."

Councilman Bob Sikyta disagreed saying that this area is an older area and as such is an "ideal spot" for the apartment complex.

Guillen for terms expiring Feb. 13, 1975 and appointed Harry Allen, replacing outgoing member Gary Hill, for a term expiring Feb. 13, 1975.

In further action the council:

Varner Would Honor Request For Probe Of Black Studies Program

University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner said Monday he will, if asked by UNO Chancellor John V. Blackwell, conduct an inquiry into charges related to the black studies program on the Omaha campus.

But Varner also stressed that he would only act on the request of Blackwell and if specific allegations are made in writing.

The nature of the allegations has not been spelled out, although it's understood they involve complaints from UNO

Black Studies Chairman Milton White about administrative decisions related to the program.

Blackwell said last week that verbal charges had been directed at persons high in the administrative structure at UNO, as well as at other academic departments.

In a telephone interview Monday, the UNO chief said he had not yet been given a written list of the charges.

In an interview here, Varner said he believed any inquiry could be handled on the Omaha campus, but he said he would honor a request from Blackwell to have it done at the central office level.

White is acting chairman of the black studies department. A search for a permanent chairman is under way.

Attorneys For Harold J. Irwin Ask New Trial

Hastings (P) — Attorneys for Harold J. L. Irwin, 29, of Hastings, have filed a motion for a new trial.

Irwin was convicted of six counts of rape and one of robbery.

The motion, filed by his court-appointed attorneys Gene Foote 2nd and John A. Wolf, list 14 grounds for seeking the new trial.

District Judge Norris Chaderton said he will rule March 10 on the motion.

Easter Seal Posts Go To Greer, Magee

J. Taylor Greer and Robert Magee, two Lincoln businessmen, have been named co-chairmen of the advance gifts campaign for the 1972 Easter Seal telethon, according to Tom Plummer Jr., director of the Nebraska Easter Seal Society.

The two men will head a committee attempting to raise funds for a building program at the Easter Seal Camp in Milford. Additional funds will be solicited in a 20-hour telethon based in Las Vegas on March 25 and 26.

Councilman Steve Cook joined Mrs. Boosalis in opposing the proposal.

In further action the Council approved the transfer of $50,000 from the Contingency Division of the General Fund to the Lincoln Transportation System.

In other action the council approved Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's appointments to the Human Rights Commission. The mayor reappointed John Scott, Carol Reilly and Rudolfo to an eighteen year old:

A statistical service has reported that out of every one hundred men starting at age 25, only five will be financially independent at age 65.

Since fixed investments have suffered from a 63% decline in purchasing power of the dollar in the last 37 years, there seems to be no way to eliminate risk. A study has shown since 1944 good growth investment companies sustained a ten-percent annual interest accumulation equivalent. And prior to that until 1924 it never went below six-percent.

There are few things you could do any wiser than to take advantage of the leverage—of time—that your youth affords in an early initiated and disciplined investment program. If you commence immediately to invest one hundred dollars yearly, by the time you are forty-eight it could be worth $18,083 and by the time you reach 68 the projected goal is $128,101.

You must plant in the recess of your mind the thought that says: I will not fail to invest one hundred dollars every year for my joyful retirement.

Despite Bad January, Government Report Forecasts Economic Rise

Tuesday, February 29, 1972 The Lincoln Star 11

Washington (UPI) — A government report Monday forecast an upturn in the economy, but the nation's foreign trade performance in January was nearly the worst ever.

The Commerce Department's composite index of leading economic indicators jumped 2.3% in January, the biggest monthly gain in a year. The index samples movements in several segments of the economy and is considered a good barometer of future economic trends.

Although the department revised December's impressive 2.2% increase down to 1.2% based on later information, the index has now risen 5.5% since October.

Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer called it an "impressive gain" which supported administration claims that an economic upturn was on the way.

In a separate report, the Census Bureau said the nation's trade balance — the difference between imports and exports — was in the red by $318 million in January.

A record month of imports contributed to the adverse swing.

In only two months — last October when the deficit was $321 million and June when it hit $357 million — have imports exceeded exports by as great a margin.

The monthly totals were not a fair picture of U.S. trade performance, however, because off-again, on-again dock strikes in recent months have distorted the figures.

Both imports and exports increased 9% in January over the previous month. Imports totaled $4.5 billion, about $294 million over the previous record high set last September.

Exports equaled $4.2 billion, about $300 million under September's record pace.

The administration is counting on an improved trade picture to help ease the strain on the overall balance of payments deficit. White House economists have predicted the trade deficit will decrease throughout 1972, nearing the zero mark by the end of the year.

Of eight leading economic indicators, six rose in January and two declined. Four others will be figured in later when data becomes available.

Increases in durable goods orders and higher stock prices in industrial raw material prices gave the biggest push to the index. Plant and equipment orders also rose and claims for unemployment insurance declined, considered a favorable sign for the economy.

Building permits fell from their December record pace, however, and the length of the average work week shortened by about 25 minutes to 39.9 hours.

Based on a 1967 average of 100, the index now stands at 134.8 compared with 131.8 in December and 127.3 in July-August, when President Nixon ordered his economic stabilization controls.

Army's Spying Said Pervasive

—The New York Times

Washington — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., disclosed Monday that Army intelligence surveillance of civilian officials from late 1967 into 1970 was more extensive than had previously been revealed.

In a brief filed with the Supreme Court, Ervin said the Army watched the political activities of a Supreme Court justice, "numerous congressmen and United States senators" and state officials.

The senator did not name the subjects of the surveillance, but a spokesman said they included Ervin himself, Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, George McGovern, Edward M. Kennedy, Harold E. Hughes, Fred R. Harris, and former senators Ralph W. Yarborough and Eugene J. McCarthy.

Members of the House included Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., John R. Rarick, D-Ia., Don Edwards, D-Calif., and former representatives Adam Clayton Powell and Allard K. Lowenstein.

Governors who came under surveillance included Francis Sargent of Massachusetts, Kenneth Curtis of Maine and Phillip Hoff of Vermont. Lt. Gov. Thomas Hayes of Vermont was also in the list.

Marshall? Ervin's spokesman declined to name the Supreme Court justice since his name was on a still secret document furnished by the Army to the subcommittee on constitutional rights, which Ervin heads. But other authoritative sources indicated that it was Thurgood Marshall. Whether the information was gathered before Marshall was named to the court in 1967 or after he took his seat was not clear. He was the solicitor general before going to the Supreme Court.

Earlier reports on the Army's civilian intelligence operation named Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., and former governor Otto Kerner of Illinois, as subjects of surveillance.

The new names came from Army reports and computer printouts from intelligence data banks that Ervin's subcommittee had obtained from the Army and had declassified, or taken out of the secret category.

Agents In Civvies
In most cases, the documents showed that Army agents in civilian clothes attended political rallies or listened to speeches given by the subjects and then filed "spot" reports on the event. The Army has consistently justified such surveillance as part of its responsibility for warning against the outbreak of civil disturbances.

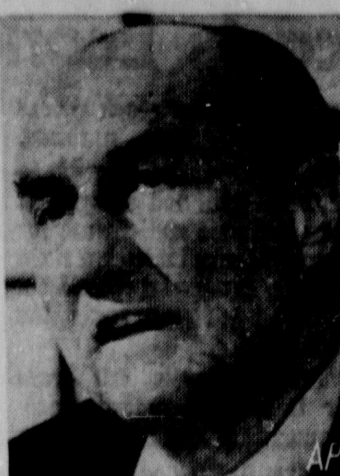

Ervin's brief in the Supreme Court was filed as "friend of the court" brief in the case of Arlo Tatum vs. Melvin Laird, the secretary of defense, Tatum, the executive secretary of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors, alleged that he had been put under surveillance by the Army.

He has filed suit against the government asking for a court order that such surveillance be enjoined in the future.

His case was dismissed in the District Court here, upheld by the Court of Appeals, and is scheduled to be heard by the Supreme Court this spring.

Kennedy... 'traitors.'

Thurmond... angered.

Civil War Vets Granted Amnesty Called Traitors

Washington (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., used the word "traitor" Monday in referring to Southerners granted amnesty after the Civil War. An angered Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said he'll use the word against Kennedy

"when he runs for president."

Kennedy was holding hearings into the possibility of amnesty for the thousands of young men who have fled the United States or gone to jail rather than fight in Vietnam.

Reaching for precedents from history, Kennedy remarked that "After the Civil War we gave amnesty to traitors."

No one, said Thurmond, who was seated next to Kennedy in the Senate Judiciary Committee hearing room, was going to use that word to describe his Confederate-soldier grandfather and other citizens of states who seceded from the Union.

Kennedy said he would not call such people traitors himself, but others have so described them.

Thurmond said he deeply resented the use of the word, and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., intervened to ask whether Confederates such as Thurmond's grandfather were not "responding to a deep moral conviction" similar to that held by some persons resisting service in the Vietnam war.

Sen. Kennedy Urges Offer Of Mediation

Washington (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy urged the Nixon administration Monday to "end its policy of silence" and offer U.S. mediation of Northern Ireland's civil crisis.

"Indeed, if one is needed, the administration could easily find a military rationale for action on the Ulster issue," the Massachusetts Democrat told a House subcommittee.

Kennedy said he was not proposing U.S. military intervention but alleged that by "some cruel irony" the administration is unwilling to offer mediation for Northern Ireland after intervening in the controversy over Britain's Malta base and in the India-Pakistan war.

"Why is it so slow to act on Ulster now," he said, "where basic human rights and the lives of innocent people are in the balance?"

Probe Proposed

London (AP) — Parliamentarians greeted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's criticism of British Northern Ireland policy by proposing a British investigation of race relations in Massachusetts.

Tarr Says Amnesty Would Be Unfair

Washington (AP) — Select Service Director Curtis W. Tarr told senators Monday that granting amnesty to Vietnam War draft resisters would be unfair and set a dangerous precedent.

Tarr told Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's judiciary subcommittee that the induction system could be wrecked by granting total amnesty now to those who chose exile rather than fight in Vietnam.

He said it could jeopardize the safety of the nation in future conflicts, set a dangerous precedent of selective acceptance of laws and be unfair to men willing to enter the armed forces when drafted.

'Precedent'
"The nation would accept a precedent for permitting the evasion of Selective Service law that might some day be an unwelcome tradition," Tarr said.

However, he said, some Americans who fled the country and were not under induction might have since become eligible for conscientious objector status because of Supreme Court decisions.

Tarr said he would instruct draft boards to give these men a chance to reopen their draft status, but Selective Service officials said the number is not likely to be large.

Kennedy, who said the United States has become a creator of political exiles rather than a haven for them, criticized Tarr's administration of the Selective Service under reform legislation passed two years ago.

'Unduly Sacrifice'
The Massachusetts Democrat accused the system of showing "a willingness to unduly sacrifice the right of registrants to the ease of its own operations."

While estimates of those who have left the country rather than face the draft have ranged up to 70,000 and the number of those jailed has been said to be about 500, Tarr said 6,000 draft registrants face possible prosecution. He said that if they were not penalized, it would be difficult to justify the continuation of the draft at all.

Tarr said the induction process might not be harmed by the proposal of Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, to grant amnesty if the draft resister accepts either induction or alternative service.

But such a bill would be grossly unfair, he said, to 2.5 million men and women who have already served in Vietnam and to those still being drafted.

War Must End
He said he could go no further than President Nixon, who said recently that no amnesty will be considered until the war is over and all American prisoners are returned.

"How much of a penalty are we going to ask these people to pay?" Kennedy asked, saying he did not believe those who left the country are getting much of a "free ride."

Still A Key Game

The announcement was made last Thursday that Nebraska's game at Kansas State on March 11 was a sellout.

Conclusion jumpers Saturday night were figuring "so what" after Nebraska's unbelievably poor performance at Colorado in a 67-57 loss.

But unless the Huskers continue to play as poorly as they did at Colorado that March 11 game at Manhattan, Kan., still could be for the Big Eight championship as far as coach Joe Cipriano's Nebraska club is concerned.

Wire service writers Monday were still using such terms as "virtually eliminated" and "knocked into oblivion" when describing what the loss at Colorado had done to the Huskers' Big Eight title hopes.

Neither of those verbal phrases is correct as far as the Huskers' Big Eight title chances are concerned. The loss at Colorado did not knock the Huskers out of the title picture.

Only one of three things would knock the Huskers out of the title race ahead of that possible showdown with K-State on March 11.

Missouri Must Help

For any of those three things to happen, you'd likely be betting against the oddsmakers.

A loss to Missouri in Lincoln Saturday would eliminate NU from the race. But if you check with your bookie about Thursday, you'll probably find him favoring Nebraska. The Huskers wouldn't be much of an underdog even to UCLA if they were playing at the NU Coliseum.

A loss to Iowa State at Ames next Monday would be an eliminator. But Iowa State has had some trouble winning this season — even at home and there's not nearly the home court advantage in the newer gyms such as Iowa State's that there is in such places as the NU Coliseum, Brewer Fieldhouse at Missouri or the Colorado facility.

The third thing that would virtually eliminate the Huskers would be a Kansas State victory at Missouri next Tuesday, but beating Missouri at Columbia is about as tough as beating Nebraska at Lincoln.

Nebraska victories over Missouri in Lincoln Saturday and Iowa State in Ames, Iowa next Monday, coupled with a Missouri win over Kansas State at Columbia, Mo., next Tuesday would send Nebraska into the K-State game with a 9-4 record while the Wildcats would be 10-3 at the tipoff.

That would mean a Nebraska victory would give the Huskers a share of the Big Eight championship and that's something that hasn't happened since the Big Eight was only the Big Seven, back in 1950 when NU, Kansas and Kansas State tied with 8-4 records.

Formula Still Same

Last week while preparing his team for its invasion of Boulder, Colo., Cipriano observed, "We've got to operate on the theory that if we win the rest of our games, the worst we can do is tie for the championship."

That recipe basically remains unchanged, the primary difference being that now the Huskers must win their remaining games to have a chance at tying for the championship.

This is not the first Nebraska basketball team to fall on its face in the altitude of the mountains of Boulder. The question that remains is whether they can bounce back from it.

Fairbury, Aurora Earn Wins In District Meet

By DEAN TERRILL
Southwest Nebraska Bureau
Crete — Top-seeded Fairbury and mid-ranked Aurora climbed to the second rung in Class B district action here Monday, topping Hickman-Norris and Centennial.

Fairbury, riding the crest of a 20-0 season which followed last year's state championship, handled Norris with even less difficulty than the 51-34 count shows. Aurora's Huskies proved themselves worthy by marshalling a second-half comeback to take Centennial 67-58.

Coach Chuck Moore's Fairbury victory was a costly one, however, and just how costly remains to be seen. The Jeffs lost two of its starters, Tom Siegel and J. R. Connell, on ankle injuries.

Siegel, 6-3 playmaker and a scoring leader, slipped in the first frame and suffered either a severe sprain or fracture. Connell sustained what appeared to be a similar injury six minutes later as he drove for the basket.

Although the Jeffs lacked their usual polish, they demonstrated their reserve strength by clearing the bench and scoring nine men. One thing that was true to form was the leadership of Siegel's younger but taller brother Bob,

Yuki-San Claims Oaklawn Feature

Hot Springs, Ark. (UPI) — Yuki-San, the longest shot in the field of eight allowance fillies and mares, unleashed a strong run late in the stretch Monday to capture the featured Pan Zereba Purse at Oaklawn Park.

Yuki-San, claimed earlier in the meeting by John Bullock, was headed at the top of the stretch by the favored Cornish Sister, but came back on the rail and overtook the favorite in the final steps of the six-furlong race.

Kathryn's Doll finished third. Yuki-San was sent to the post at 14-1 and returned 30.00, $10.80 and $4.20. Cornish Sister paid $4.20 and $2.80 and Kathryn's Doll returned $3.40 to show.

who topped both rosters with 23 points.

Norris' slow-down tactics cut into the winners' total, but they were never pushed after a seven-point Jeff burst just before the half. A big height advantage — the Jeffs have five regulars at least 6-3 — offset some erratic play which cost the winners at least a dozen turnovers.

With Stan Kroese and Roger Meyer pacing, Norris ran up nearly half its total in free throws, hitting 16 of 29. Fairbury was also cold at the line with 15 of 31.

Both Aurora and Centennial had their hot streaks, but that of Coach Bill Holliday's club was considerably longer. The Huskies were down at the half, 27-26, but surged to advantages in both the third and fourth frames.

In the second quarter, Centennial had hit 12 points in one stretch while holding Aurora scoreless. Marshall Bruns and Jack Eberspacher spearheaded the effort. Bruns finally overtook the Huskies at 25-24. Aurora had posted a 20-11 lead in the opener.

After intermission, Aurora raced back on three quickies by Larry Schreiber, then tied at 38. Gary Keller, who finished with 18 points for high, then led to a 44-41 margin as the quarter ended.

The Huskies notched 12 points in one final interval while a tiring Centennial, lacking bench strength, managed but one.

The winners' balance had three men scoring in the teens, Schreiber and David Hahn each four behind Keller with 14. Eberspacher and Bruns closed with 19 and 17 for Centennial's best.

Managerial Ambitions Put Aside By Robinson

... CURRENT DODGER INTERESTED IN BEING GOOD PLAYER FOR THE TIME BEING

Vero Beach, Fla. (AP) — Frank Robinson revealed Monday he had put aside his managerial ambitions because he was afraid "the public and the people in baseball might start to think Frank Robinson was trying to force himself into a job."

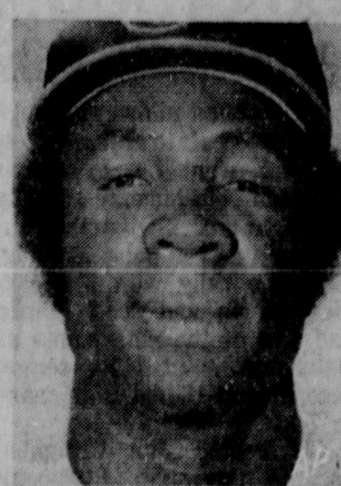

In that manner, Robinson suggested that his previous statements on the subject — in which he said he no longer was interested in managing — were made to duck an issue that had become a source of constant embarrassment.

Robinson, long ballyhooed as the leading contender to become the first black manager in the major leagues, candidly discussed the subject as he worked out for the second day with his new Los Angeles Dodgers teammates.

"I got tired of hearing my name rumored every time a managerial job opened up," said Robinson, "and I got tired of everyone always asking 'Would you like to manage this club, would you like to manage that club?'"

"Too much was being made of it. Every time someone was fired, there was my name. I know as a player I get tired of reading the same things about an individual in the papers over and over again. I know the public was getting tired of hearing about me."

Frank Robinson

The last straw for Robinson apparently centered around the managerial vacancy at Cleveland, and reports stating flatly that Robinson was going to get the job based on Robinson's friendship with Gabe Paul, the Indians' president.

"That put Gabe on the spot a little," Robinson explained. "I don't want any of that kind of thing and I don't want a job because I'm friends with anybody. I want to be offered a job on the basis of my ability."

"But the big thing is, I don't want to be asked about managing wherever I go, in every city we play this year. After all, it's not going to happen now, or for the next year or so—the way it is, I'm my own worst enemy."

"As long as I'm successful as a player, on the field, it's going to be tough for me to walk away as a player."

Robinson, of course, has continued to be successful, despite the fact he will be 37 in August. Last year, with the American League champion Baltimore Orioles, Robinson .281 with 28 home runs and 99 runs batted in.

That, in itself, has to be a serious deterrent to any managerial ambitions Robinson might still harbor, since there are few, if any, teams which would willingly part with a hitter of that stature and allow him to go to another club as a manager.

Fully aware of that, and certain that the subject would continue to rear its head constantly unless something was done, Robinson had now shoved into the background whatever post-player ambitions he has.

"I'm a player and I'm going to be for a while," he said. "After that, if I want to manage, I'll discuss managing. But not while I'm still a player — and that's what I am."

FRANKLIN INKS PACT

Purdue Cager Early Signer

... NOW CONSIDERED PRO

Indianapolis, Ind. (AP) — "Colleges recruit a boy for four years to have a better team. Agents sign a boy to make some money. In some ways, they are very similar," Purdue basketball coach George King said Monday after losing one of his stars in an early contract signing.

William Franklin, 6-8 senior from Norfolk, Va., has been one of the stars in Purdue's somewhat less than sparkling season. Franklin last week signed a contract with an agent, making him immediately ineligible for college ball.

Earlier, Marquette's Jim Chones signed a professional contract with the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association.

King doubts if they are isolated instances.

"I personally have the feeling it is widespread throughout the country," King told the Indianapolis News.

"But if somebody doesn't check into it, who knows? If the facts were known, if we really had the inside, they would have found a whole lot more last year."

King was referring to the case of Villanova's Howard Porter, who signed an ABA contract during the season last year.

"You can talk to an agent and try to make him understand that coaches have an interest in the player's welfare."

"We talked with this agent Gary Donna of Indianapolis, who signed Franklin, as we did with all agents, to leave our kids alone until the time is right."

"The unfortunate thing is they catch a boy at the right time before the season is complete. The boy thinks it is the thing to do. In William's case it was entirely because of the upcoming ABA draft," King said. "He signed after the Michigan State game, then the draft was postponed."

"This was not a hardship situation, but William does come from very modest means. That probably was why he was so susceptible to the right timing."

Tom Nissalke, coach of the Dallas Chaparrals of the ABA, told the News after Saturday night's game in Dallas with the Indiana Pacers, he felt there were a number of signings with agents that have not come to light.

"I would say over 50 per cent of the good college players in the country have signed with agents," Nissalke said. "If all this would come about, they probably wouldn't be able to have the NCAA tournament. I've talked to a lot of agents who talk money figures. They want to know what to expect when the draft comes up."

"I don't think it's the fault of the kids to want to get that money. The NBA, the ABA, the NCAA, everybody has to get together and come up with an orderly draft," Nissalke said.

"I think it's terrible that so much pressure is put on a kid to sign before the season is over. But I also think a kid should have the opportunity to sign during his college career."

"Many pro people are concerned that the college game, which has long been a farm system for them, might be harmed. But it's hard to tell a kid he's done something wrong when he's been brought into college by cheating in the first place."

Reckewey Tops Frosh

Lincoln's Kent Reckewey, averaging nearly 20 points per game, continues to pace Nebraska freshmen basketball scores.

Reckewey's 19.4 average is one of four in double figures for the Husker frosh. Others are Don Jackson at 14.8, Jim Goodrich at 12.5 and Steve Erwin at 11.2.

Final Class D Regionals Set

The two Class D high school basketball regional playoff games, for which a site and date had not been determined, were finalized Monday.

Byron and Shickley will meet for one state tournament berth in Hebron, Friday night at 8 p.m., while Mead and Hampton will clash for another coveted spot in the state classic at Wilber, Wednesday night at 7:30.

The other 14 Class C and D playoffs were previously announced. All winners will advance to the state tournament in Lincoln, March 9-11.

Waverly, Auburn Register Wins In Class B-1 District

... TECUMSEH, NEBRASKA CITY ELIMINATED

Auburn — Top-seeded Waverly and third-seeded Auburn registered convincing opening-round wins here Monday night in the Class B-1 district basketball tournament.

Waverly defeated Tecumseh, 70-57, in the opener and Auburn downed Nebraska City, 77-60, in the nightcap.

Coach Ron Seymour's Waverly Vikings placed four players in double scoring figures in recording their 16th win of the season against only five losses.

Senior Jerry Francke's 20 points led the balanced Waverly attack.

Junior John Winter and senior Scott Otley contributed 17 and 16 points, respectively, for Waverly, which also got a 10-point, 24-rebound performance from 6-5 junior Marty Weber.

Coach Stan Martin's Tecumseh club, which finished with a 6-10 record, received 17 points apiece from Phil McDowell and Bob Taggart.

Auburn raced to a 41-27 halftime bulge and went on to gain its eighth win in 15 games.

In doing so, coach Larry Dankenbring's Bulldogs avenged a 58-54 loss to Nebraska City in late January.

Dankenbring praised the performance of senior captain Bob Hemmingsen, who scored 19 points, two less than teammate Greg Hahn.

Auburn lost a 61-60 decision to Waverly earlier this season, possibly indicating a close Thursday semifinal matchup.

Lincoln Pius X (9-9) will meet second-seeded Falls City at 8 here Tuesday night after Plattsmouth and Syracuse battle at 6:15.

Holmes Golf Course Set To Open Tuesday

Lincoln's Holmes Park Golf Course will be opened for play Tuesday, Director of Parks and Recreation Don Smith said Monday.

He said Pioneers Park would open Saturday if some remodeling work on the clubhouse is completed by then and that the Jim Ager Memorial junior course would open April 1.

District Track Groupings Announced

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

With the state high school basketball tournament just a week away and spring sports set to start immediately upon the conclusion of the hoop classic, the Nebraska School Activities Association has announced district groupings for track.

The district track meets will be held the week prior to the state meet, which will move this spring from Kearney to Omaha Burke High where it will be staged the weekend of May 19-20.

The Lincoln schools picked up a new and formidable addition when Omaha Central, always noted for a strong corps of sprinters and hurdlers, was added.

Eight squads are grouped in each district. In the past, with 16 schools in the metro Omaha area, two districts have handled those teams. But this year, with the opening of Omaha Northwest, a change was required.

Prior to the beginning of each sport, one Omaha area team is drawn from a hat and assigned to an outstate group. In basketball it was Creighton Prep, which this week is involved in district tournament play with Fremont, South Sioux City and Norfolk.

For track, Central will join the four class A Capital City schools plus Fremont, Norfolk and South Sioux.

Big Red Rifle Tournament Set

The 19th annual Big Red Invitational Rifle Tournament will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the University of Nebraska Military and Naval Sciences Building, 14th and Vine.

The tournament, sponsored by the N.R. Rifle Club, is expected to attract 35 to 40 teams, competing in open, men's, women's and ROTC divisions.

Shooting will get under way all three days at 8 a.m. and continue until approximately 8 p.m.

Lincoln Gal Sparks Wins

Beth Jernberg of Lincoln, playing for Sioux Falls, S.D., paced its girls' basketball team to wins over Nebraska Wesleyan and Nebraska Saturday at Nebraska Wesleyan.

Miss Jernberg hit 17 as Sioux Falls downed NWU 39-24 and then got 19 to pace a 38-30 win over NU.

Paulson Gets Double Pinochle

Esther Paulson, subbing in the Schoolmaster League at Plaza, scored a rare coup when she picked up the double pinochle split.

The split, which is the 4-6-7-10, is extremely difficult to get. Mrs. Paulson, who is 70, normally bowls in the Plaza Senior League.

was held for the first time last spring in Grand Island, the site again this spring on May 12-13.

The four Class A Lincoln schools are grouped with Beatrice and Norfolk, while the Pius X girls will be in a 10-team district which includes the same schools as the Class B boys with the exception of Nebraska City, which does not field a girls track team.

The NSAA also announced the district assignments for golf competition. Omaha Benson was the Omaha area team drawn from the hat for the links sport and will join the four Class A Lincoln schools plus Fremont, Norfolk and South Sioux City in District A-2 play.

Educators Security Life, Superior Benefit Merger Wins Approval

Stockholders have approved the merger of Educators Security Life Insurance Co. and Superior Benefit Life Insurance Co. into Pioneer Insurance Co., Roger D. Sack, president of Superior Equity Corp., announced Monday.

Pioneer Insurance will continue the insurance operation for both Educators Security and Superior Benefits as a more than 95% owned subsidiary of Superior Equity Corp., he said.

The committee will probe complaints of election irregularities and check on campaign practices.

As a result of the merger Pioneer Insurance will have approximately $291.8 million insurance in force, assets of $16.5 million and reserves of $10.8 million. Pioneer Insurance is licensed in Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming.

Group To Police House Elections

Washington (AP) — The House created Monday a special five-member committee to police the 1972 House elections.

Four Injured In Truck Stop Fire

Nebraska City (AP) — Four Iowans were treated at a hospital here for burns and lacerations after a fire Sunday at Worlie Brothers Truck Stop, just across the Missouri River on Iowa Hwy. 2.

Fire officials said the blaze began in an upstairs apartment occupied by the Carl Reed family. Reed, his wife and daughter, Carol, along with Cindy Morse of Council Bluffs, were hurt.

There was extensive damage to both floors of the truck stop. Fire departments from Nebraska City and Percival, Iowa fought the blaze.

THE RYATTS

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:
New Brunswick is bordered by water on about three-quarters of its boundaries.
The floral emblem of Prince Edward Island is the lady's slipper.
New Brunswick's floral emblem is the purple violet.
The first known birds were about the size of crows and had teeth and long, feathered tails.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE
Here's how to work it:
One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. Right.
